North Platte Made 'Disaster Area' As Blizzard Diminishes

Digging Out Begins; Storm Said Worse Than One Of '88

Northwestern Nebraska began Wednesday the task of digging out from under drifts piled up to 25 feet, left by the worst blizzard ever to hit the state.

The three-day blizzard which stung and buried the panhandle area with 15 to 40 inches of snow, moved into central South Dakota Wednesday but left high winds behind to hamper digging out operations.

Snow, whipped by 30 to 40-mile an hour winds, was still blowing at Kimball as the blizzard moved slowly out of the state leaving western Nebraska from the Wyoming border to the Broken Bow area paralyzed with only telephone and telegraph communications with the outside world.

There were no reported deaths from the blizzard, which the Lincoln weather bureau reported topped that of 1888, but strong winds driving the snow kept all roads in the northwest blocked and prevented rescue teams from learning the fate of hundreds stranded in the snowstorm.

Meanwhile the American Red Cross at noon Wednesday designated North Platte as a disaster area as communities in that area reported their bread and fuel supplies dwindling fast.

State Ready For Emergency. The state prepared to take "emergency action" Wednesday afternoon if necessary as Gov. Val Peterson, informed of the disaster conditions, directed Adjutant Gen. Guy Henninger to review the storm area and advise him of what action should be taken.

Earlier General Henninger reported that no emergency calls had been received from the blizzard-battered area of northwest Nebraska.

Meanwhile, in the storm area high winds piled drifts higher in the Chadron area, where the deepest snow had fallen. CAA officials there reported that streets cleared in the town were filling in shortly after snowplows had battled their way through.

Shortages of bread, milk and fuel oil were reported from Chadron and surrounding towns, with drifts up to 20 feet forming giant roadblocks that snowplow crews still were unable to break through.

Tales of storm rescues, some of them heroic, began to pour in from the blizzard-hit area.

A Bushnell, Neb. farm couple, overcome by gas fumes Monday evening failed to reach the farm home. Another attempt was scheduled to be made later today.

Meanwhile, state safety patrolman began a search for the whereabouts of 70 persons known missing in the panhandle area. The patrolmen like other rescue workers faced near blinding snow and temperatures ranging from 5 to 15 above.

Planes Used.

Rescue work was scheduled to be continued into the night throughout the Panhandle. Lowry air force base at Denver reported that it planned to dispatch a C-47 cargo plane to Sidney, Neb., to drop 80 cases of "C" rations and 15 cases of canned milk at the Sioux ordinance depot.

Meanwhile at Ainsworth, 3-year-old Carol Lynn Krackmeier was resting in a hospital today after being brought 11 miles from her farm home by 25 volunteer firemen. The girl had been ill since Friday. Neighbors tried to bring her to town earlier in the week but failed.

In the Alliance area, Patrolman Myron E. Frerichs was using an army jeep to locate missing persons and aid local officials in getting food to the snowbound.

Already at least ten expectant mothers, aided by rescue workers at Scottsbluff, Alliance and Chadron had won in their battle through snow to reach hospitals.

At Chadron, C. B. Colburn of the CAA, reported that many residents said they were low on fuel oil and that many persons were still unaccounted for. Ranchers, according to Colburn, have telephoned asking him when it would be possible to begin a search for cattle. Few if any, Colburn said, wanted to venture out into the storm until they were assured it had stopped.

Snowplows Busy.

More than 700 state snowplows were at work but progress in northwestern Nebraska was termed "very slow" because of the deep drifts which at times extended for two miles.

There was more than 24 inches of snow on the ground at Alliance where 40 to 50 passenger from a Burlington train had taken refuge in a hotel. National Guardsmen cut through the deep snow to rush two expectant mothers to the hospital in the city.

Thousands of cars were stalled on highways throughout the storm area but no deaths from freezing were reported by the state safety patrol. Most of the passengers took refuge in farm houses.

The coldest spot in the state was outside the storm area—Norfolk and Valentine had one above.

Winds Still Blowing.

The strong winds which were still sweeping most of western Nebraska ranged from 30 miles an hour at North Platte to approximately 40 at Chadron.

Deep snowfalls left by the abating blizzard included 19 inches at both Sidney and Scottsbluff. Alliance had 24 inches, Mullin, 20, and 15 fell at Valentine. Grand Island reported 6 inches.

At Chadron, CAA officials reported at 8 a. m. today "we've quit measuring the snow until it stops blowing because it's too deep."

Many Towns Isolated.

The highway department reported early Wednesday that all roads in northwestern Nebraska were blocked and that dozens of small towns were isolated.

Fear High Livestock Losses.

Livestock losses were expected to run high in the sandhill area although ranchers north of Chadron expressed the hope that if many of the cattle are found within a few days they could be saved. They pointed out that the deep snow had covered up all the fence lines and that the animals were now free to roam with the storm and would not be caught in fence corners and mill until exhausted.

Town by town reports from the blizzard area Wednesday to The Star included:

ALLIANCE—Drifting of snow continued here Wednesday although the snow stopped falling Tuesday night. Two feet of snow and 10 to 12 feet drifts cover this area. A shortage of fuel oil and coal threatens many homes. A passenger train bound for Deadwood, S. D., No. 41 from Lincoln are still stranded here. Passengers are being carried for in local hotels.

Three expectant mothers were safely transported to a local hospital Tuesday by National Guardsmen. There are reports of many empty stalled cars. A milk shortage, grocery store officials warned.

No traffic is able to move either within or outside of the city limits. Many store clerks have been unable to report for work and only about half of the business houses were open Tuesday.

KIMBALL—Snow continued falling, blowing and drifting here Wednesday. Snowfall has been estimated at near 20 inches. Although the road is open to the hospital in case of any emergencies, streets in the town and countryside remain blocked. Many cars are stalled between Kimball and Bushnell.

According to County Attorney Kenneth Fritzer, rescue workers still haven't been able to reach the Bushnell farm couple overcome Monday by gas fumes.

The City of San Francisco streamliner with 289 passengers remain stalled here. The wartime service center, across the street from the depot, has been reopened to serve the stranded. A local restaurant is preparing and serving meals to the passengers.

MULLEN—Blizzard conditions began subsiding here early Wednesday morning and skies cleared later in the day. The temperature hovered at six degrees above zero. Approximately 15 inches of snow

'49 Blizzard Tops Famous 1888 Storm

Northwestern Nebraska's blizzard termed the worst in the history of the panhandle and the state by Lincoln weather bureau, topped the famous blizzard of 1888 on these points.

(1) The 1949 storm lasted for more than 2½ days while the 1888 blizzard blew itself out "approximately 24 hours."

(2) Snowfall ranged upward to a depth of 40 inches in the current storm, topping the snowfall of 1888. Drifts in both storms were about the same.

However, the 30 below zero temperatures recorded in the famous 1888 blizzard, which covered the entire state, topped the 0 to 5 below mercury readings of the '49 storm which ended early today.

The weatherman was joined by Chicago officials of the Northwestern railroad in describing the blizzard as the worst ever to be encountered by its lines.

Battle To Clear Roads, Rails Begins

Rail and bus transportation, paralyzed by the blizzard since Sunday in western Nebraska, began to move on a limited scale Wednesday as snowplows cracked mountain-like drifts a little faster than the strong, biting wind could fill road and rail lines up again.

All transportation was still clogged in northwestern Nebraska where state highway department snowplows were battling drifts which at times extended for more than a mile. In that area thousands of travelers were marooned in snow-stalled trains, buses and autos.

Rescue and relief crews faced near zero weather as they battered their way through drifts to carry aid and food to the snowbound.

Rotaries Rushed In.

Meanwhile, Burlington, Union Pacific and Rock Island trains were again rolling from Lincoln westward toward Denver, but hours behind schedule. The U. P. reported that its westbound City of Denver was being routed by the way of Beatrice, as drifts ranging upward to 25 feet still clogged the usual Nebraska-Wyoming route.

Burlington westbound trains were faring better, officials reported, with travel to the west resumed, but trains were running late. The Rock Island reported their trains were operating on "scrambled schedules" with the eastbound Rocket due here from Denver at 10:40 a. m. scheduled to arrive Wednesday afternoon between 4:30 and 5.

Roads west of North Platte and northwest of Grand Island were drifting shut as fast as huge rotary plows were opening them, according to the state highway department.

was received, with drifts ranging from eight to 12 feet.

HYANNIS—A bright sun greeted blizzard-weary residents here Wednesday. Ranchers in the area feared an extremely heavy stock loss. Schools remained closed, but business houses were gradually getting back to normal. The mercury stood at six above Wednesday morning. The snow stopped falling Tuesday night, leaving 12-foot drifts throughout the territory. A west wind kept the snow drifting Wednesday.

AINSWORTH—A tremendous stock loss is feared in the area west of here, an Ainsworth, Burlington depot spokesman said Wednesday. Snow stopped falling here Tuesday night, but continued to drift Wednesday due to a strong northwest wind.

Plows are en route from both Chadron and Long Pine to clear the railroad tracks in the area. There has been no train service in or out of Ainsworth for three days. The town has an ample supply of fuel oil, coal and food.

THEOPOLD—Skies began clearing here at 7 a. m. Wednesday, although the wind kept the snow drifting. Schools remained closed as 10-foot drifts have left the area completely clogged. No emergencies have arisen here during the storm.

SENECA—Snow continued blowing Wednesday, but stopped falling Tuesday night. Drifts range from 12 to 15 feet high.

BLIZZARD VERSION OF A MILK TRUCK—Unable to get around by automobile because of snow, dairymen Lorne Hickok, Mrs. Hickok and brother Verne Hickok use a horse-drawn wagon to deliver milk at Atkinson, Neb. The "bangboard" on the wagon, used for corn picking, serves as a shield from the wind. An unidentified youngster hitch-hikes a sled ride. (AP Wirephoto Wednesday.)

Eventual Victory Over Polio Seen By O'Connor

President Of National Foundation Here For March Of Dimes Opening

"I think we can safely say that there now is scientific hope of victory over polio in the foreseeable future," Basil O'Connor, New York City, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, told March of Dimes workers at a luncheon meeting in the Cornhusker hotel Wednesday.

However, he stressed that this end would only be achieved by continuing support of research and care programs now backed by the national group and its local chapters.

The local March of Dimes drive, with a goal of $30,000 for Lancaster county, will be formally opened Wednesday evening with a dinner for chapter representatives and civic leaders. E. C. Belknap, Foundation representative for eastern Nebraska, said approximately 185 are expected. Featured speaker will be O'Connor.

Resources Taxed To Limit. At the informal noon meeting, O'Connor pointed out that epidemics of infantile paralysis, which ran above 27,500 cases in 1949 throughout the nation, have so taxed resources of the foundation that today it is "on trial for its very life."

Pointing out that the Foundation's expenditure on patient care exceeded $17,000,000 for 1948, O'Connor declared there is an urgent need to raise vast sums through the 1949 March of Dimes which runs Jan. 14-31. Greatly expanded research also demands increased financial support, he said.

"Between these two needs, research and care, lies a great gap—lack of money," O'Connor stated. "If we do not have enough money, which activity should we abandon? Shall it be that which means sacrificing freedom from infantile paralysis in the future? Or shall it be that which means alleviating the suffering of young

Callan Again Head Budget Committee

Terdik Chairman Of Revenue Group

By ARCH DONOVAN

Sen. John S. Callan veteran legislator from Odell, will again head the important budget committee of the legislature, it was decided Wednesday when the committees recommended by the committee under chairmanship of Sen. Harry Pizer, North Platte, were approved.

Sen. Charles F. Terdik, Omaha, who has attended every session of the unicameral, will head the revenue committee.

These two groups are expected to bear the brunt of the problems facing the state—money for operation and how to raise it.

The Callan budget committee will recommend how much is to be spent. It will be their responsibility to see that appropriations are kept to a minimum but at the same time provide sufficient funds for sound operation of the state business.

Many Tax Bills Certain.

After this determination is made, the Terdik committee will have the problem of deciding the ways and means by which the money can be raised from taxes. It is certain that individual legislators will introduce many bills providing taxes including sales taxes, added gasoline and motor vehicle taxes, etc.

The education committee under Sen. Dwight W. Burney will have to wrestle with the school re-districting bill, certification of teachers and many other school problems.

Chairman Otto J. Prohs' public works committee probably will

125 Snowbound Rail Passengers Arrive In City

... From Seneca

The first of the snowbound that were caught in the blizzard and marooned for more than 48 hours at Seneca, Neb., on a Burlington passenger train arrived in Lincoln at noon Wednesday.

A 125 shivering passengers, many who rode the return trip in unheated coaches, climbed down from the snow-covered passenger train which returned to Lincoln behind snowplows.

Still stalled at Seneca, according to Burlington officials, was a troop train carrying approximately 300 soldiers.

Passengers from the bus were taken on to Kansas City in another bus dispatched from Lincoln following a two hour delay, Miss Roach reported.

Somebody once asked Prof. Charles Townsend Copeland why he lived on the top floor of Hollis hall at Harvard university, in his small, dusty, old rooms, and suggested that he move.

"No," said Professor Copeland. "I shall always live here on the top floor. It is the only place in Cambridge where God alone is above me." Then, after a pause, "He's busy—but He's quiet."

Truman Calls For Anti-Inflation, Social Measures

Taft-Hartley Law Repeal, Aid To Farmers, Civil Rights Laws, Universal Training, Prepaid Medical Insurance And Million Public Housing Units Asked

WASHINGTON—President Truman laid his "re-deal" program before congress today: $4,000,000,000 of new taxes and a vast extension of government in social and economic fields.

The president went before a joint session of the senate and house and read a 3,500-word "state of the union" message. In effect, it asked the new democratic-controlled congress to redeem the campaign pledges which swept Mr. Truman and his party into full national power in last fall's election.

The chief executive asked:

Authority to impose sweeping economic controls, including regulation of some wages and prices.

Power for the government to build steel mills and other plants if congress finds that must be done to get materials in "critically short supply."

Repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Universal military training.

Civil rights laws.

Aid to farmers, aid to education and aid to public housing.

Bigger social security benefits and a system of prepaid medical and health insurance.

Galleries Packed.

Packed galleries heard the president's address. It was broadcast by major networks and was carried overseas by the state department's "Voice of America."

On the house floor, women members made a spray of color. Orchid shoulder corsages turned upon Reps. Mary Norton (D-NJ) and Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass.).

Initial reaction from the legislators ranged almost as widely as the message itself.

Senator Lucas of Illinois, the senate's democratic leader-elect, said the program is in line with Mr. Truman's campaign pledges and is "designed to meet the needs of the great majority of this country."

"My hope," Lucas declared, "is that we can enact the greater part of it."

Taft Disagrees.

Sen. Taft of Ohio, the republican policy leader, said he believes government spending could be cut so that there would be no need to boost taxes.

Mr. Truman suggested that most of the proposed $4,000,000,000 increase be in business taxes.

Rep. Cox (D-Ga.) interpreted the message as meaning "we are going into a socialistic state."

"It looks as if we are going the way England went and without the restraint and caution," he told a reporter. "We're making a violent turn to the left."

Rep. Doughton (D-NC), who will head the tax-framing house ways and means committee, said he is glad the president laid down no "hard and fast rules" for a new tax program.

Must Convince People.

"The country will not look very favorably on increased taxes until the people are convinced we are not wasting money," said Doughton. "The president's tax proposal is interesting and worthy of serious consideration."

Rep. Reed (NY), No. 1 republican on the house committee handling tax legislation, commented: "This is an inflationary message and follows the line of tax and spend, tax and spend, elect and elect."

The state of the union message gave only a general outline of what Mr. Truman wants. More details will be supplied in later messages and in programs which cabinet officers will present to congressional committees.

The president will have an economic message on Friday and will send his proposed budget to the legislators on Monday.

Many of Mr. Truman's recommendations repeated things he has asked unsuccessfully before.

Prospects Favorable.

With his own party in control and many of its new senators and representatives regarded as "new dealers," the president's advisers feel that prospects are now favorable for enactment of many of the proposals the GOP-dominated 80th congress rejected last year.

Mr. Truman himself told congress today: "In the months ahead I know that I shall be able to co-operate with this congress."

The president recommended that the new taxes be levied principally against corporations, without specifying what he has in mind. He also asked higher estate and gift taxes and consideration of

'FAIR DEAL' ASKED

WASHINGTON (INS)—The democratic-controlled 81st congress will go down in history as the "fair deal" congress.

The legislature will get its name by dealing with the program President Truman recommended today in his state of the union message and which the chief executive called a "fair deal" program.

56 Bills Are Introduced By Senators

Two Deal With Aid To Aged, Children

The legislature Wednesday continued the fast tempo set on Tuesday and senators continued to pour in the bills they have had prepared in advance. Adjournment was taken at 12:30 until 10 a. m. Thursday.

Committee organizations were completed in the morning session to permit assignment of bills for hearings. The session was continued past the noon hour to permit further introduction and first reading of titles of bills totaling 56.

Responsibility of relatives of indigents was stressed in two measures introduced by Sens. Metzger, Hanna and Carmody.

LB 23 provided that "Parents or children of any applicant (for old age assistance) shall be required, if within the county, to appear in person before the OAAA board and state under oath the facts with reference to inability to support the applicant."

Aid Not "Salary."

"We want the people to understand that this is assistance that they're getting, and not a pension or a 'salary,'" declared Sen. Metzger.

Failure to support a wife or children for three months would be considered prima facie evidence of abandonment under LB 24. If the violation was 30 days or less the penalty would be a county jail sentence of not more than 30 days. Violations of 30 days or more would be a felony with a 1 to 3 year sentence in the penitentiary the penalty.

To Complete Capitol Murals.

Senator Metzger also introduced a bill recommended by a subcommittee of the legislative council to provide ways of completing the murals in the state capitol.

The commission would consist of the president of the state historical society, chancellor of the university, superintendent of the Joselyn Memorial museum, Omaha, and six persons appointed by the governor. Appointees would be two representatives from art societies.

Search Begins For Missing Alliance Man

Two Cowboys Also Believed Lost In Storm

ALLIANCE, Neb.—(AP)—Air and ground searches were started today for an Alliance man lost in the blizzard since Sunday night. The missing man is Claude Hannibal, head of the Nebraska Hydrogas company of Alliance. Hannibal, with him when the truck stalled Sunday night 25 miles southeast of Alliance, was rescued 36 hours later by a cowboy from the nearby Snow ranch, suffering from frost-bitten hands and feet. He was taken to the ranch house on horseback. Smith told authorities Hannibal left the truck to get some fenceposts in an attempt to free the truck. He failed to return. To Conduct Air Search. Early today a heavy diesel tractor and a half-track set out through the drifts from the Snow ranch and the National Guard prepared to start an air search. State highway equipment began breaking through drifts to the Alliance airbase where planes will be headquartered in the search. Alliance also heard an unconfirmed report that two cowboys were missing from the Minor ranch near Hyannis and planes were to be used in the search for them.

increased personal income taxes "in the middle and upper brackets."

The tax proposal was part of a series of proposed anti-inflationary measures, including standby power to impose wage and price controls, passage of a strengthened rent control extension, continued control of consumer credit and enlarged powers "to control bank credit."

Business Expansion Urged. And he coupled recommendations covering a series of new deal proposals with a call upon business to plan for "steady, vigorous expansion—seeking always to increase its output, lower its prices and avoid the vices of monopoly and restriction."

"So long as business does this," Mr. Truman said in a personal appearance before a joint session of the two houses, "it will be contributing to continued prosperity and it will have the help and encouragement of government."

Mr. Truman laid before the new 81st congress virtually every recommendation he made in the 351 speeches of his 31,500 miles of campaigning for the presidency.

Old Wagner Act Proposed. Included were calls for farm price supports and adequate storage space for wheat and other crops—two items he hammered hard in winning farm states which usually go republican.

He asked, too, for repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law, which he blasted across the country as unfair to working men. He proposed re-enactment of the old Wagner act with, however, prohibitions against "jurisdictional strikes and unjustifiable secondary boycotts."

He topped off a message sure to stir controversy in and out of congress with a new call for enactment of the entire slate of civil rights proposals he advocated last year.

Then, they not only failed of passage, but brought a cleavage in democratic ranks and cost him four southern states.

"I stand squarely behind those proposals," he said.

Security Stressed. The proposals include an anti-labor law, repeal of the poll tax as a requirement for voting, prohibitions against discrimination in hiring because of race, creed or color, and other similar legislation.

Asserting "the heart of our foreign policy is peace," the president requested that the hands of the country's diplomats and of the United Nations be strengthened by passage of a universal training law. He said its enactment "is essential to the security of the United States."

"We are doing all that we can to encourage free states and free peoples throughout the world, to aid the suffering and afflicted in foreign lands, and to strengthen democratic nations against aggression," he said.

Until a system of world security is established "upon which we can safely rely," he said, "we cannot escape the burden of creating and maintaining armed forces sufficient to deter aggression."

Mr. Truman said "the state of the union is good" but that prosperity is threatened "at a number of critical points in the economy." He proposed his anti-inflation program to put him in a position to take effective action "at these danger spots."

Favors 75c Minimum Wage. The president recommended a minimum wage of at least 75 cents an hour (it is now 40 cents), a million new low-rent public housing units over the next seven years, expanded social security coverage and other social measures, and declared:

"We have rejected the discredited theory that the fortunes of the nation should be in the hands of the privileged few. We have abandoned the 'trickle-down' concept of national prosperity. Instead, we believe that our economic system should rest on a democratic foundation and that wealth should be created for the benefit of all."

"The recent election shows that the American people are in favor of this kind of society and want to go on improving it." At the same time, the chief executive said the government "must work with industry" as well as with labor and the farmers "to keep our industry running at full speed."

Under the type of policies he wants continued, he said, "our private enterprise system has reached new heights of production."

Record Prosperity. "This progress has confounded the gloomy prophets—at home and abroad—who predicted the downfall of American capitalism," Mr. Truman continued. "The American people, going their own way, confident in their own powers, have achieved the greatest prosperity the world has ever seen."

"But, as great as our progress has been, we still have a long way to go." He said government alone cannot protect the economy "against the evils of 'boom and bust'."

"Indeed," the president continued, "the greater part of the task must be performed by individual efforts under our system of free enterprise. We can keep our present prosperity, and increase it, only if free enterprise and free government work together to that end."

Wants Balanced Budget. In support of his tax recommendations, the president said "it is essential not only that the federal budget be balanced, but also that there be a substantial surplus to reduce inflationary pressures, and permit a sizeable reduction in the national debt, which now stands at $252,000,000,000."

He did not specify the nature of the "additional corporate taxes" he wants to impose or how much of the four billion he would raise by this levy.

Weather Postpones State Wheat Show

McCOOK, Neb.—(AP)—The Nebraska wheat show, scheduled here Thursday, has been postponed indefinitely.

J. C. "Chet" Swinbank, manager of the show, said the event could not be held because of the storm and snow-blocked roads.

Award certificates which were to be presented to western district winners of the official state 10-acre corn yield contest in connection with the wheat show, will be given to county agents in the winners' areas for distribution. Names of winners are to be announced Thursday by D. L. Gross, extension agronomist at the University of Nebraska.

$248,000 Spent in State.

O'Connor revealed that March of Dimes money in the last eleven years has helped pay for medical care for 110,000 polio patients at a cost of more than $37,000,000, has financed research at 114 leading institutions totaling $17,630,000 and has provided training for over 1,800 professional workers.

Of the 27,500 cases registered in the nation during 1948, 717 were in Nebraska, O'Connor reported. He said that on a national scale, the total represented the second highest figure in history. Severest known year was 1916 with over 29,000 cases, he said.

In caring for the 1948 Nebraska cases, over $248,000 was spent, O'Connor told the workers. Of this amount, $65,000 came from the national foundation, he reported.

O'Connor praised the high per capita rate of contributions in Nebraska, 22 cents per person as compared to the national rate of only 14 cents. The amount collected during the 1948 campaign was $295,500, of which half remained in the state, he reported. Announcement of 1949 drive personnel, including the chairman, will be made Thursday.

Elmer Magee, first president of the local chapter introduced O'Connor at the luncheon.

NEW YORK — (AP)—Stock market prices slanted upward today soon after the president started delivering his state of the union message to congress.

Immediate reaction was a slight dip in a handful of issues, notably in the steel group. Less than half an hour after contents of the speech were made public, prices started to advance. Steel, rail and automobile stocks did better than most other sections of the market.

Pneumonia Patient Taken To Broken Bow

Lincoln Man Removed From Stalled Train Is Resting Well

The plane carrying Mrs. Miller to her husband's bedside landed safely Wednesday afternoon at Broken Bow, the state safety patrol headquarters was informed. An improvised landing strip was set up for the emergency.

(Special to The Star)

BROKEN BOW, Neb.—The condition of Orville Miller, 55, technician at the state hospital in Lincoln, was listed as "resting well" Wednesday morning.

Miller was stricken with pneumonia while aboard a train stalled at Seneca by the western Nebraska blizzard. When his condition became worse Tuesday, a snowplow from here took Dr. P. H. J. Carothers of Broken Bow to Miller's bedside.

The Lincoln man was brought to a hospital here on passenger train No. 44, arriving at 4:30 a. m. after leaving Seneca at 12:05 a. m. Wednesday.

Miller was on his way to a veterans' hospital at Hot Springs, S. D., when his train became stranded. Tuesday he was treated by a medical non-commissioned officer aboard a troop train also halted at Seneca. The soldier received telephone instructions from doctors at Alliance.

Wife Heads For Hospital.

Miller's wife, also employed at the state hospital, was slated to arrive in Broken Bow Wednesday afternoon by plane. The Prairie Airways ship, piloted by A. M. Holzapsel, left the Lincoln municipal airport at 10 a. m. Wednesday and with the aid of the state highway department and the state patrol was to land on an improvised runway on highway No. 2 southeast of Broken Bow.

Permission for setting up the emergency landing strip was granted by the state aeronautics department. State patrol cars have been placed at each end of the runway to mark the strip for the pilot. Arrangements were also made to signal air directions to the plane.

Limited Visibility.

Patrolmen on the scene crossed their fingers for the safe landing of the aircraft as winds up to 50 miles per hour swept the Broken Bow area. Visibility at noon was limited to a quarter of a mile due to blowing snow.

Dr. Carothers together with 20 other men made the trip to Seneca on the snowplow in four hours encountering many high drifts, but no trouble. The group took two hind quarters of beef and a big supply of bread with them for the stranded passengers in Seneca.

Due to trouble with the heating equipment on train No. 43, only one Pullman coach could be kept warm. Miller together with the other passengers coming back east from Seneca, were all in this one coach.

Prior to the arrival of the snowplow, mattresses from the Pullman coaches were taken to a local Seneca restaurant where the housed roomed from No. 43 were housed. The 250 soldiers were fed at this same restaurant.

On the journey back to Broken Bow, the train encountered some trouble with "hot boxes," thus delaying the trip.

Stock Prices Advance After Truman Talk

NEW YORK — (AP)—Stock market prices slanted upward today soon after the president started delivering his state of the union message to congress.

Immediate reaction was a slight dip in a handful of issues, notably in the steel group. Less than half an hour after contents of the speech were made public, prices started to advance. Steel, rail and automobile stocks did better than most other sections of the market.

cities, one from the architectural association and three persons interested in murals.

The commission would be given authority to prepare plans, drawings and specifications for panels and murals in the rotunda and employ such consultants as they believed necessary. They would file a report before the next session giving the estimated cost of the work.

The commission would receive no pay but would be reimbursed for expenses when work of the committee took them away from home.

School Re-districting.

Senators Metzger, Ed Hoyt of McCook and Harry Burnham of Sargent joined in sponsoring a school re-districting bill.

The bill follows the outline contained in a recent legislative council report. There would be a state committee named by the governor and county committees chosen by the local school board members in the respective counties.

No proposed re-districting plan could take effect without approval of a majority vote in each of the voting units affected.

Raise Blind Aid Minimum.

It would be the duty of the state committee to initiate and recommend plans and procedures for reorganization of school districts within the various counties, and to furnish advice and assistance.

The state committee's function would be only advisory, however. If a county committee were to report that no reorganization was advisable in that county, no re-districting plan would be undertaken.

The bill sets up election procedure in case a proposed reorganization plan should be put to a vote.

Sen. J. V. Benesch, Omaha, introduced three bills dealing with aid to the blind.

One bill takes off the present $50 ceiling on aid to the blind, and raises the minimum grant from $5 per month to $15 per month.

One bill removes the condition that an applicant for blind aid must be a person who has no parent, child, husband or wife who can support him. The third bill requires operator of a vehicle to give special consideration to a blind person bearing a white cane or using a guide dog.

40-Year Minimum for Lifers.

Senators Don Hanna, Valentine, and William Metzger introduced a bill requiring a lapse of 40 years after commitment before a life term prisoner could apply for parole from the state penitentiary, excepting on grounds of newly discovered evidence.

Such a convict could not be released on account of good behavior until he had served 40 years.

Ice Still Unsafe On 3 City Ponds

Ice on three Lincoln skating areas was still in an "unsafe" condition according to a report Wednesday by the park department. These areas are Bethany, College View and Belmont.

Other areas were described as: Lake street—poor. Oak Creek—good. Sawyer-Snell—good.

Friedens Church Officers Named; Set $12,000 Budget

The congregation of Friedens Lutheran church elected officers and heard reports at the church's annual meeting Tuesday night. Officers and councilmen elected were:

Conrad Scheidt, president. George Heizenrader, secretary. P. C. Strassheim, treasurer. Elders—John Schreier, Emil Darnauer, John Rohrig, Scotty Harris, Chris Schubert and John Wunder. Trustees—R. D. Leback, R. Adams and John Kissler.

All were re-elected except Strassheim, Harris, Schubert, and Kissler.

David Wagenleitner, retiring treasurer, reported that the previous balance and 1948 receipts, excluding those of various organizations with the church, totaled $9,723.49. Expenditures, including $12,189.76 for benevolences, amounted to $7,566.97 for the year. A budget of $12,000 was adopted for 1949.

Fourteen new members were received into the church during the past year bringing the baptized membership to 1,377.

Murder Gets Along

BY ROBERT SIDNEY BOWEN

Chapter 28
I hugged the drugstore doorway, and watched Goldielocks trip lightly into a cab that eventually swerved into the curb empty.

Still hugging the store doorway, I watched it drive up the avenue and turn west at the next street. Life was beginning again for me, but I waited until my watch said quarter of ten.

In front of Goldielocks' apartment door I stopped, took a deep breath, and then did a retake. I pushed the bell button and waited, with every nerve I've got twanging like an off-key violin string. Nobody opened the door.

The ring-chain of keys Maurice Cardeur had once owned I had in my hands by then. I selected one I thought would do the trick, and opened the apartment door easy as pie, stepped in quickly, and softly closed it. Then I stood there two, three minutes not moving a single thing except my eyes.

And I moved them in all directions at the same time. But I didn't see a single thing save a hundred things that drew a picture of Goldielocks in my mind right away. Finally I moved slowly through the foyer and down into the half sunken living room. I was uneasy, and I guess you could call it a little scared. I felt from the top of my head all the way down to the soles of my shoes that I was not alone in that apartment!

With both myself and my gun ready for anything, I toured Goldielocks' apartment like nobody's business, but nobody jumped me, or shot at me, or even said, "Boo!"

Back in the living room I holstered my gun, dropped myself comfortably on the sofa, and gave myself up to waiting. Just how long I wasn't sure, but I had a feeling that it wouldn't be too long.

Suddenly I heard, or sensed, the swift, sudden, desperate movement. It was like a couple of dozen times in Burma, and China, and in the Philippines. The whisper of death on its way fast. You hear it, or you just sense it.

I didn't twist my head around for a flash look in back of me. Or even start up onto my feet.

On the contrary I threw myself over sideways, and twisted the middle part of me over and down, so that I landed on my hands and knees on the floor. By then he had brought down the barrel of his gun. He couldn't stop in time. Neither the gun, nor his forward movement. The gun smacked the sofa cushion halfway down. The forward movement banged him against the back of the sofa. As he sort of cartwheeled I zoomed up. I locked both hands about his gun wrist, pivoted, and twisted my hands at the same time.

The gun fell from his fingers, and his body was draped over my hunched back for about two split seconds. Then, using arm leverage, his arm. I hurled him in a flying arc that ended up with him flat on his back on the floor.

Gordon Parrish was tough, though. Considerably tougher than I would have believed. The average man would have had barely a drop of air left in his lungs, and most certainly he would have had a broken arm, broken at the wrist. But he had air, and he still had two arms to use. He came up like a rubber ball and charged head first.

I let him charge. A little bit. Then I moved in between his out-flung hands and let him have one. No, not to the jaw. I cracked my fist to the front of his neck; to the Adam's apple. And practically at the same time I brought my left down on the back of his neck. Right at the hairline to be exact. Sure, his charging body hurtled full force against me, and I am not constructed along immovable brick wall lines. I went flying over backwards, but the sofa was there, so I actually sat down hard. But there was no sofa for Parrish. There was only the floor. He hit it flat on his face, half rolled over and clawed frantically at his neck.

I got a handful of his jacket and shirt with my left hand, hoisted him up a foot or so off the floor, and then smashed his potato-shaped nose with my right, letting go my hold as I did so. I had long ago counted six lumps on my head, so I went through that routine six times. And each time I hit him in a different place. Believe me, he was twice as homely when the seventh time I hoisted him all the way up and flung him back onto the sofa.

His gun was on the floor at his feet, but I made no move to pick it up and put it out of harm's way. Instead I took out my own gun, and held it lightly in my hand. When he finally brought his head down, and glared at me out of the one eye that was still open he just glared. I just grinned. "How did you get in Parrish?" I finally asked him "And where were you hiding?"

"I should have shot you, Barnes!"

"You should have done a lot of things," I told him flatly. "How did you get in here?"

He glared at me with his good eye, sneered at me with his lips, and said nothing. Well, if he wanted to play that way, it was perfectly all right with me. I came out of my chair fast, took the two necessary steps and raked the left side of his face from the temple to the jaw point with the muzzle of my gun. He howled with pain as the little drops of blood oozed through.

"How did you get in?" I repeated, and moved back to my chair.

"The same way you did," he groaned, and put a hand to his face. "It was nothing."

"Where'd you come from just now?" I wanted to know.

He moved his head a little to indicate a big padded chair in the corner.

"Now the sixty-four dollar question," I said. "Just what were you doing, or did you hope to do, in here?"

I thought I knew, or at least could make a close guess. I wanted to hear it from his lips, though. However, I didn't. I didn't because at that exact instant I heard a key being fitted into the apartment front door lock. Parrish heard it too. He stiffened up a little. By then, though, I was moving fast.

I went over to him and brought my gun barrel down across his head. He folded, and rolled off the sofa onto the floor. I gave him a shove with my foot to a position where he wouldn't be seen at once from the foyer. Then, holstering my gun, I walked quickly to the foyer, along the wall against which the door would open. I reached it just in time to slide out of sight as the door opened. The balloon was at long last going up! I hoped!

Planning Director Is Considered

Personnel discussions, centering around a planning director and a possible researcher, occupied the planning commission at its regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening.

Under consideration were several nationally known men. Chairman E. J. Faulkner called for another meeting within the next 10 days. By that time he hopes to have a definite announcement.

Two resolutions were passed by the commission. The first acknowledged the recent $2,500 grant by the Cooper foundation. This sum in addition to about $2,000 now in the treasury will be used to pay the salary of future personnel.

Survey Accepted.

The other resolution accepted the Cooper foundation financed recreation survey completed several months ago.

Additional business included reports by chairmen of the three committees. Joseph Ginsburg of the economic committee said recommendations for the improvement of the city's finances would be ready by the next regular meeting.

Wardner Scott of the utilities and facilities committee, revealed that a land use map of the capital environs had been secured. He said arrangements for a new aerial map of Lincoln were being completed. Studies on highway

Plans Pushed For New Church At Havelock

Lutherans To Build At 60th and Fremont

Plans for construction of a new church at Sixtieth and Fremont streets were completed by members of Havelock Lutheran church at the annual meeting Tuesday night.

Rev. E. C. Hansen said church members hoped construction would begin Aug. 1 and be completed by next Christmas.

Contractors and architects are being contacted. However, the only construction detail decided upon is that the church will be made of natural stone, Dr. Hansen explained.

He said a building fund for the new church had been started about a year and a half ago.

The present church building at Seventieth and Platte streets was moved to the location about 1913, when Havelock was not a part of Lincoln, Dr. Hansen said.

New council members named at the meeting were Edwin Scott and Arthur Schwartz. Also announced was the addition of 25 new members during 1948.

Opinion Is Issued On Drunk-Driving Sentence

The attorney general's office held Tuesday that a drunk driver should be required to furnish continued proof of financial responsibility, even after the period for which his license was suspended.

"It does not matter that the individual was at the time of his sentence ordered to refrain from driving for a brief period, possibly 30 days," Assistant Attorney General Walter Nolte said.

The driver's license department may under the law require proof of responsibility for as long as three years, the opinion said.

U. S. To Hold Bird Census This Month

WASHINGTON—(AP)—North America's ducks and geese face a special hunting season next week—but the hunters will be armed with tabulation machines instead of guns.

Cecil Williams, chief of Migratory Waterfowl Investigations for the fish and Wildlife Service, said the fifteenth annual inventory of waterfowl will take place Jan. 11 to 14.

About 1,300 trained observers will do the counting at the birds wintering grounds from Alaska to Guatemala. The Canadian and Mexican governments are co-operating in the census.

For the last two years the waterfowl population has remained at almost 54,000,000 birds. "We have hopes that an increase will develop this year," Williams told a reporter. "Breeding grounds showed improvement last summer, and the fall birds were booming, particularly in some coastal areas."

He noted, however, that heavy shooting pressure, lead poisoning and water pollution recently have taken a heavy toll. The waterfowl countries will be assisted by hundreds of amateur ornithologists and conservation enthusiasts. Air Force, Coast Guard, Navy and National Guard planes also will carry the waterfowl observers on their routine training mission.

—Shanghai— Reds Show No Interest In War Halt

Both Sides May Be Set For Bargaining

SHANGHAI—(AP)—The communist New China News Agency today termed Chiang Kai-shek's peace overtures a nationalist "de-laying action" and said the Reds would fight on "to the finish."

The broadcast was picked up in Nanking by the newspaper Sin Wan Pao. No other source reported hearing the broadcast, the first mention by the Yenan radio of Chiang's peace feeler of a few days ago.

No communist official or organization was quoted by the red news agency, which presumably, made the statement on its own.

However, competent sources here and elsewhere took the broadcast to mean that both sides now may be entering into a favorite Chinese pastime—bargaining.

Chiang's First Price?

Many view Chiang's original terms in his year-end statement to be the government's first price. The communists, they say, are reacting according to the best Chinese business tradition by showing no interest. They are in a position to do so, for they have the upper hand militarily. If such is the procedure, when Chiang gets down to his last price then a break may come.

Newspapers in Shanghai and Nanking turned the blast of their peace offensive on the government. Seven more public organizations in Shanghai sent messages to Yenan and Nanking urging the belligerents to come to terms.

A Chinese source with connections close to the government said today Chiang Kai-shek had ordered the removal of government records, property and personnel southward to Canton and Formosa.

This was taken as evidence by many that the Chinese president and government leaders did not expect a favorable reaction from his peace proposal.

Polio Work Is Reviewed By T. J. McGinty

Lincoln General hospital admitted about 75 polio patients during 1948, the first year it has accepted polio cases, T. J. McGinty, administrator, told Lincoln junior chamber of commerce members Tuesday.

Administrator McGinty gave a resume of the hospital's activities for the year during the junior chamber's annual March of Dimes luncheon.

Attending with him were two polio victims, now making rapid recovery. Rodney Hoffman, 10-year-old from Minden, who was almost completely paralyzed and has now recovered sufficiently to walk but cannot climb stairs, and Wesley Otto, 14, 4327 Baldwin, Lincoln, who is able to walk, but wears a body brace, as does Rodney. Miss Isadore Brown, physiotherapist at the General, accompanied them.

Both were released by the hospital to spend Christmas at home, McGinty said. At the peak of the polio epidemic, the hospital reached a high of 20 patients at one time.

Dr. Kenneth Holland chairman of the executive board, Lancaster county chapter of the Paralytic Paralysis Association, praised local work, stating, "Mr. McGinty and the General hospital should both be highly recommended for their efforts."

The foundation has brought three hot pack treatment machines and an iron lung machine into Lincoln. The hospital has an iron lung as part of its equipment.

Landis Heads County Young Republicans

Frank Landis was elected president of the Lancaster county Young Republicans at a meeting Tuesday night at the Cornhusker hotel. Retiring president is Merle Karnoff.

Other officers elected were Miss Amy Hook, vice president; Mrs. Rachel Workman, secretary, and Gene Ellis, treasurer.

The group discussed tentative plans for the coming year. The executive committee will meet within the next few weeks to make definite plans.

Speaker Stresses Obligations Of Minority Groups

It is the inherent responsibility and obligation of each minority group to be able to contribute to the American way of life the finest of its customs, traditions and religious heritage, Mrs. Barney Garber, national board member of the Women's Synagogues of America from St. Paul, Minn., said Tuesday night.

Addressing a meeting at the Sisterhood of Tifereth Israel Synagogue, Mrs. Garber explained that the contributions of minority groups are of utmost importance because only a strong, plural culture can build a strong America.

And we must stress the importance of being able to furnish sufficient and proper leadership and spiritual guidance," she added.

Mrs. Garber, regional chairman of the Torah fund project, called upon those present to do their share in contributing to the national fund which is sponsored by the National Women's league of the United Synagogue of America. The national goal is $175,000.

11,561 Teachers Affiliated With Retirement Plan

With 303 state school teachers retired, there are 11,561 affiliated with the retirement system, Glenn I. Anderson, director, said in his annual report as of July 1. In all, 13,653 have joined, but 2,072 withdrew after quitting teaching or leaving the state.

The oldest active teacher has service of 55 years and the youngest teacher is 16 years of age. The system also handles funds for municipal retirement systems in Grand Island, Fremont, Fairbury, Holdrege, Kearney, Beatrice and Hastings and the state safety patrol.

The school savings fund now has $1,852,000. Municipal employees payments total $75,000 and safety patrol $26,000.

New Labor Measure Prepared

Taft-Hartley Law Replacement Planned Before End Of Month

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A complete replacement for the Taft-Hartley act will be ready for congress before the end of this month, Rep. Lesinski (D-Mich) said today.

Lesinski, due to head the house labor committee, told a reporter the new measure will not be hastily stitched together to satisfy demands for repeal of the republic-an-authored Taft-Hartley law. Labor union leaders have expressed fear that such a patch-work would keep some Taft-Hartley features.

The Michigan congressman said that while his bill "will be entirely new, it also will be something that will work."

Details Withheld.

He was not ready to talk about details, however, because:

"First, it depends on what the president asks for in his message to congress. He will get what he wants. Next, it depends on when the house committees get organized. I will be ready to go as soon as the committee is set."

Lesinski, who started his ninth house term Monday on his 64th birthday, said legislative offices in several government departments are assembling data for him on operations of the Taft-Hartley and Wagner acts.

Strive For "Fair" Bill.

"I think the committee will let me put together a bill from this information, just to have something to shoot at," he said.

"Then when we are done with the shooting in hearings and committee conferences, we will be ready to write a final bill and get it to the floor for debate. That will be before the end of this month.

"We will have something that will be acceptable to the president, acceptable to the various different groups of labor, and fair to both labor and management."

The AFL and CIO are opposed to a single labor bill. They want the Taft-Hartley act repealed and the Wagner act reinstated in one measure, with "any necessary amendments" in another.

State May Have Inaugural Float

It appeared today that Nebraska still may be represented in the presidential inaugural parade in Washington, D. C., January 20.

Gov. Val Peterson said he had been informed that a bipartisan group of Nebraskans is being formed to handle the Nebraska representation in the parade.

Included, according to Gov. Peterson, are Mrs. Grace Barnore, democratic national committee-woman from Lexington, William Stewart, Lexington attorney, and William Thomas, Douglas county republican chairman.

Gov. Peterson earlier had said that no provisions have been made for state funds to pay the expenses of preparing a float for the parade. The cost of the float has been estimated at between $1,500 and $3,000.

Half Of Patients At Vet Hospital Of World War II

About one-half of the 275 patients at the Veterans hospital are World war II veterans, Dr. Harry Scott, hospital manager, reported Tuesday night.

Dr. Scott, addressing a meeting of the Lincoln V's Men's club at the Y. M. C. A., said 20 per cent of the total number of patients are being treated for service connected disabilities.

There are 165 veterans waiting to be admitted to the hospital but none of these have service connected disabilities, he said.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEREETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEREETH at any drug store.

Measure Of Quality

It is a measure of the high quality of the Nebraska unicameral legislature that the selection of a speaker from its ranks could be accomplished in an atmosphere of such friendliness as characterized the election of Senator Earl Lee of Fremont Tuesday. Three men had been mentioned as possible choices—Senator Lee, Senator Earl Carmody and Senator Charles Tvrdek of Omaha. All three are capable, seasoned legislators, all three enjoy the confidence of their colleagues, and all three have made valuable contributions to legislation. They put on no tense campaign individually to win the coveted honor. It is not unusual that the struggle over the speakership adds a touch of bitterness that extends over legislative sessions for a considerable period of time. The unicameral system seems to have eliminated this. The selection of Mr. Lee was accomplished with the utmost harmony. It caps a legislative career which found him without opposition in the district in the November election, reflecting a splendid record in the preceding session.

Mrs. Rohde Honored

The announcement of the award of a scroll of merit, one of seven conferred upon American women, to Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde, former minister to Denmark, and the daughter of the late W. J. Bryan, will be of interest and pride to thousands of Nebraskans. Mrs. Rohde has achieved a distinguished career in the footsteps of a distinguished father. She served ably in congress; her mission abroad to represent the government of the United States in Copenhagen strengthened the warm ties between this country and the Baltic peoples. The scroll presented to Mrs. Rohde paid tribute to her for an "outstanding contribution to good citizenship, human welfare, and the advancement of the American heritage of freedom." It was well deserved.

Wee Bit Rough

Elise Morrow, one of the women journalists in the national capital, yielded to the questionable newspaper practice of nominating dignitaries. In her long classification she picks a "most preposterous senator," on which she writes there is plenty of competition "but when you get down to details there is no equal to Glen H. Taylor, the absurd poseur from the cow country. This ham actor, a dubious gift to the national political scene from Pocatello, Idaho, who was Henry Wallace's running mate, really outdistances his republican counterpart, Kenneth Wherry, the jolly mortician from Nebraska." It takes some imagination to discover any similarity between Taylor and Wherry. By the time his colleagues got down to the job of floor leader all opposition to Senator Wherry had vanished.

Town And Farm

We haven't the slightest idea what the figures for urban and rural indebtedness in 1948 will show in all the counties of the state, but in Lancaster the contrast is drawn sharply.

Farm indebtedness continued to shrink; in the city of Lincoln mortgages filed against real estate increased. In the case of 184 farms in Lancaster, mortgages aggregating $883,340 were released, while obligations against 117 farms, amounting to $718,155 were made matters of record. In Lincoln 2,724 mortgages to the total amount of $11,532,555 were released while 3,280, totaling $18,141,525 were filed. The explanation, probably, rests in the construction of an exceptionally large number of homes in Lincoln.

But the continuing, constant drop in farm indebtedness against the land should be a source of genuine satisfaction. The total farm indebtedness

INVESTIGATIVE PROCESS

We are inclined to think most Americans will agree upon the urgency of congress retaining its investigative processes. Yet that congressional function had grown into disrepute largely because of loose, reckless procedure by the house un-American activities committee of the 80th congress. Its successor, which took office at the beginning of the week, seems to be retracing its steps along sane, sound lines.

As now contemplated the permanent standing committee on un-American activities will be retained but with these restrictions upon procedure:

- (a) Anyone attacked in testimony or other evidence before a committee shall have the opportunity to file a sworn rebuttal, which will be made a part of the record;
- (b) Anyone accused shall have the right to testify personally in his or her own behalf;
- (c) The committee shall summon, at government expense, witnesses requested by an accused to testify in his or her behalf;
- (d) Anyone accused shall have the right of limited cross-examination of the accuser, conducted either by the accused or by counsel;
- (e) An accused shall have the right of legal counsel, even in executive session;
- (f) Publication or filing of any committee report prohibited until properly in Lancaster now is approximately 8 millions less than at the peak tide of 25 millions in 1927, which re-emphasizes that the farmer has been in the position to pay off his debt, and out of the experiences of the '20s made it the first order of business. Probably the same condition prevails in most of the counties of the state. Much more so than in the '20s land purchases of recent years have been on a cash basis, squeezing out in a very large measure the element of speculation which terminated so disastrously in the earlier period.

"Big Name" Coach

The business of securing a new football coach for the University of Nebraska moves forward, has reached the point where it has become the subject of general discussion in wire dispatches. There was a heaping earful of hard, common sense in the warning which World-Herald Sports Editor Floyd Olds poured out last Sunday against a mounting demand for the selection of a "big name" tutor to rejuvenate the fortunes of Cornhusker football. Part of the agitation to raise a huge fund adequate to meet the fancy financial demands of some of the more widely recognized leaders in the gridiron sport is traced directly to Omaha football enthusiasts by Mr. Olds, who at the same time fully absolves the so-called "O Street Gang" from participation.

But the point of his entire discussion is that any arrangement to pay a portion of the salary of the coach through the regular university channels, with an impressive chunk on the side contributed by unidentified outsiders, inevitably would transfer football control from the athletic board, the chancellor, and the board of regents to a small group of boosters, whose sole responsibility would be to dig up the dough. That, of course, is undesirable to put it mildly; unthinkable to use the language which seems to be called for. Mr. Olds indicates that Chancellor Gustavson has taken the position that no outside arrangements can be made to finance the hiring of a "big name" coach, adds that if this is the chancellor's position, he deserves commendation and support. The chancellor, it does not appear, is participating directly in the search for a new coach. That chore has fallen on the shoulders of Patsy Clark who has been exceedingly active and busy on his assignment to it. But the attitude of the university, its chancellor, and the majority of its sports fans, it is to be believed, want no hocus-pocus or back of the curtain stuff introduced in the sports program of the University of Nebraska, no undercover slush fund to hire a "big name" coach, or to go out and hire an impressive array of football talent. It is a system that Nebraska never has indulged in, in either good or bad weather, and it will be to the state's everlasting regret if temporary reverses should hang that on the neck of university athletics, football primarily. Nebraska's tradition has been to handle football out on the table.

A "big name" coach is no assurance of a championship football team, year in and out. What is needed, apparently, is a new name, backed with a reasonably good record, qualified to fit into the situation here, and to start the task of rebuilding in methodical fashion. That's the job which is not done in a day, or overnight.

Tito's Wants

There is no finesse or subtlety in the demands which Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia makes upon Russia. He knows what he wants and he puts it down on the line. He is at odds with Moscow solely because the Kremlin, he says, wants him to slow down his industrialization program. Yugoslavia is rich in raw materials, particularly metals, in its primitive mountainous country. It needs machinery. It has been supplying both food and raw materials to other satellite states upon the insistence of Moscow, and has been getting back manufactured goods in exchange but at "high" prices. The satellite nations, Tito insists, have cancelled shipments of machinery which were to have constituted part of the exchange, with the result that Yugoslavia has been compelled to produce its own industrial equipment or go without. In short he wants to play with communism, and insists upon being his own boss, which suggests that he doesn't understand Moscow's general pattern.

The Dionne Gals

Back in the news again after a long absence are the Dionne quintuplets, moving rapidly towards young womanhood. It seems only yesterday when a news-hungry world was intrigued with the report of the birth of these five girls. Now they have celebrated their 14th birthday, and the closing days of May next will be 15, with only memories of a happy childhood, blessed by robust good health. Probably the immunity they have enjoyed from the children's ailments reflects the unusual care showered upon them. They have never been seriously ill, and although living in a snowy cold region in recent years, they have escaped the common cold.

For a time the annual income of the Dionne quintuplets averaged $200,000; now it has dropped to $50,000 or less.

But that does not mean skipping.

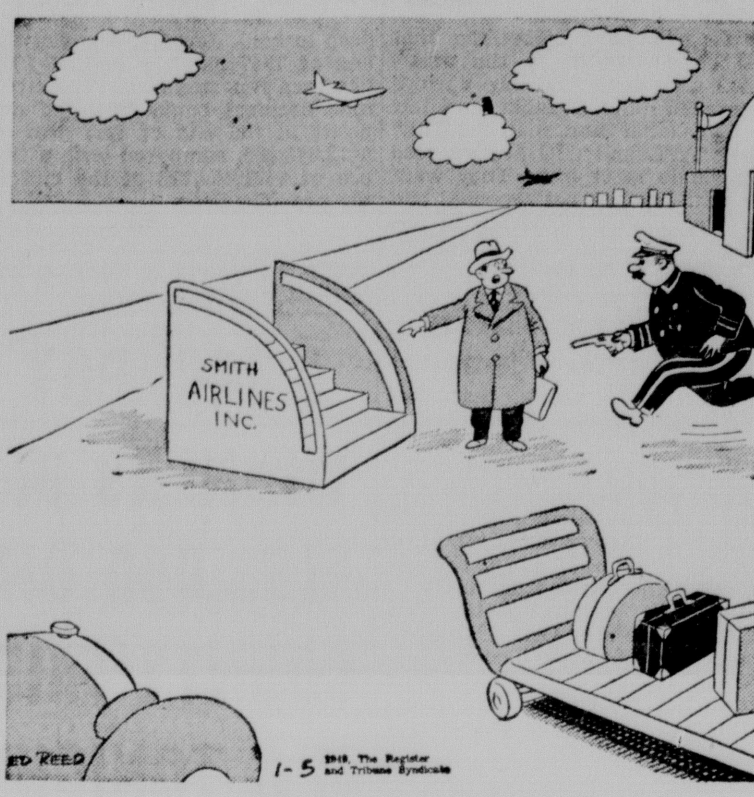

They have a fortune estimated at a million dollars, of which their father is the sole administrator. They live in a 26-room brick and stucco home, with nine baths, the work of a celebrated architect.

approved by a majority of the committee; (g) Staff members are to be prohibited from writing a committee report or in other words the congressional committee itself must pass upon and approve any report issued in its name.

Those amendments to committee procedure will go a long way toward safeguarding the judicial rights of every American individual. The rebellion against the house un-American activities committee at all times has not been inspired by its objectives but by the committee's practices. The new rules will apply not only to it but to all inquiries launched by congress.

The investigative process is an important responsibility of congress, not only in the field that has occupied so much public attention, but in all matters affecting government. Obviously the rules decided upon will remove the source of widespread criticism, place the congressional investigative process on a sound basis, and strengthen and preserve it. In a practical sense the labors of investigating committees will be made more effective, will command more public respect, which is the thing to be desired. Investigation, resting upon sound foundations, and properly conducted, contribute greatly to good health of democratic government.

OFF THE RECORD

"He ran up those stairs!"

THE DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND
By DREW PEARSON

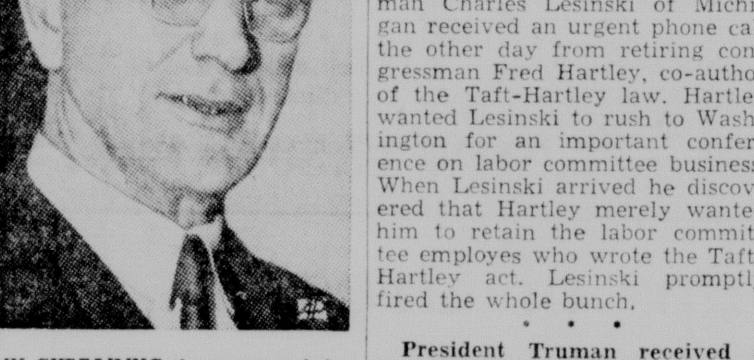

WASHINGTON — Gov. Tom Dewey called in former Secretary of War Bob Patterson the other day, offered him an appointment to New York state's powerful circuit court of appeals. During the discussion, Dewey congratulated Patterson on having won the surrogate Frankenthaler court case for the New York county republicans.

"It wasn't a very hard case," replied Patterson. "I had all the facts on my side. It was actually a 'lead-pipe cinch'."

"Bob," replied Dewey, with a twinkle in his eye, "I'm the last guy in the world you should talk to about 'lead-pipe cinches.'"

John Rankin of Mississippi, Gene Cox of Georgia and Howard Smith of Virginia were a chastened trio when they crept out of the house democratic caucus last week after their protests against modernizing the house rules committee were squelched by a 176-88 vote.

Never before in their long careers had they been spat upon quite so hard. Even freshman

IN CURTAILING the powers of the house rules committee Rep. John McCormack (above) joined with his colleagues in squelching Mississippi's John Rankin and Georgia's Gene Cox. The two, along with Virginia's Howard Smith, were chastened in spirit when they crept out of a house caucus.

congressmen at the closed-door meeting joined in heckling Rankin, who surpassed all his previous demagoguery by charging that the move to revise rules committee procedure was hatched in Moscow.

"The effort to change our rules was initiated by the FEPC (Fair Employment Practices Commission) 'gangs' stormed the half-pint Mississippians. 'The FEPC proposition, as everybody knows, was first propounded by Joe Stalin in 1920.'"

This gem brought howls of uncontrolled glee. Veteran Congressman John Dingell of Michigan broke in to say:

"Isn't it true that the rules committee blocked important housing legislation in addition to the FEPC bill? Isn't it true that the banking and currency committee at the last session reported a housing bill which the rules committee refused to accept? Instead, the rules committee gave us a substitute bill dictated by the real estate lobby. As everybody knows, that was put over by the very men now trying to perpetuate the blockade of liberal legislation."

"You are trying to blast the rules committee out of existence," loudly objected Cox of Georgia. "You are trying to change the American form of government."

"Oh, no, we're not. We are trying to preserve it," retorted Rep. Herman Eberhart of Pennsylvania. "Harry Truman was elected president and we have a democratic congress without any help from the gentleman from Mississippi and these other gentlemen whose obstructionist tactics in the 79th congress were partly responsible for a republican victory in the 80th. I'm glad this test has come. It will show how many democrats intend by their votes to carry out their campaign pledges to the people."

Majority Leader John McCormack explained that if the resolution to speed up rules-committee procedure carried by a two-thirds vote in the caucus, all democrats would be bound to vote for the resolution as a unit on the house floor.

"Well, what's going to happen to us if we violate the decision of the caucus?" yelled Cox.

"You may get rapped on the knuckles," shouted New York's "Manny" Celler, amid laughs.

"Suppose we walk out of this caucus right now before the vote is taken—will we still be bound to vote for the resolution on the floor?" inquired the Georgian.

"Yes," ruled presiding officer

SAFETY ASSISTANCE

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Please allow me to take this means of sincerely thanking you and your newspaper for the splendid co-operation you have given the Nebraska Safety Patrol the past year. Much of the success of the state in reducing traffic fatalities 19.6 per cent during 1948 has been due to the assistance given to the patrol by the newspapers in keeping traffic safety in the minds of Nebraskans at all times. With this assistance continued in 1949, I am sure that traffic fatalities may be still further reduced. I want to assure you that it has been a personal pleasure to work with you. May I again thank you in responding to the plea in reducing traffic accidents.

A CUSHION FOR EDUCATION.

Omaha, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Tax problems and communism are the paramount issues in the life of every American today. Excessive federal income taxes, increased interest rates and limitations on credits of installment buying by the federal reserve bank system are the causes of our present deflation which resulted in the drop in prices of farm products and the tightening up on business which will eventually eliminate the small businessman. The primary object of communism is the destruction of the middle classes which are the backbone of the American way of life. Here in Nebraska our legislators can help the taxpayers by providing the way to use the 14-million-dollar trust fund now in the state treasury to provide needed funds for the state university, and one million dollars per year for the next five years should be expended in the development of oil and gas reserves on the two million acres of state school lands in Nebraska, which in turn should provide a 15-million-dollar annual income for the schools. This act alone would stop the cry of the administration for more taxes in Nebraska. Why don't our state representatives do something about this instead of trying to find new methods of taxation?

ROY M. HARROP.

IDLE FARM BUILDINGS.

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: It was of great interest to me to read in The Star of Dec. 31 of the report of Lincoln's esteemed Max Main, former Internal Revenue chief here in Lincoln, in regard to the increasing collections of the office. Mr. Main states that taxes were about the same from 1918 to 1933. Since 1933 increases have been enormous.

I wonder how many others can recognize the lapse from 1933 to the present as a reign of terror, giving rise to destruction of individualism, of our country and of our government to a great extent. How many, now too late, since 1933, understand the ostensible pretext of recognition and security of lower income individuals and smaller business? How many, too, can find direct explanation of idle farm buildings all over the country? Alas—too many regrettable handouts to some at the expense of those more capable, more deserving and willing to exercise God-given individualism.

WALLIE W. MATTICE.

Note: Mr. Mattice surely recalls the situation in Nebraska from 1929 to 1933. It was a period of greatest exodus.

HOLIDAY-END

Pass me the pills prescribed for over-eating.

The tube of tooth paste said the breath to sweeten.

Feed me the bread the radio keeps repeating.

Will strength restore the moment it is eaten.

Glad for the day and all it holds I'd waken.

No longer weary of the gay world's clamor.

Give me the tonic, once a dose is taken.

That's guaranteed to add a touch of glamor.

Get me that soap insuring pink complexion.

Petique and indigestion have undone me.

My loved ones' pride I'd keep and their affection.

I do not want my dearest friends to shun me.

Too many parties filled the Christmas season.

Too many nights too late I've been a rover.

Now back I go once more to rhyme and reason.

Thankful at last the holidays are over.

WASHINGTON CALLING

by MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—No congress in many years will be watched as closely as the one that now has convened. Having put the republicans on the spot for their record in the 80th congress, President Truman and his party must demonstrate that they can do a whole lot better.

The score in September of 1950, when the congress began, was not a promising one. The republican campaign begins, will determine a lot more than the outcome of that campaign. It can determine the shape of things to come, politically speaking, for a long time.

The leaders of the new congress are conscious of the concentrated attention focusing on them. It happens, however, they are the same leaders and the president in the White House is the same man who failed so conspicuously to collaborate in the year and a half preceding the republican victory of 1946.

So much has happened in the meantime, especially within the democratic party, that the unhappy era of last spring seems unbelievably far off. Relations between the chief executive and his own party in congress had steadily deteriorated. There was scarcely a speaking acquaintance between the two.

Even such an even-tempered, kindly man as Alben Barkley of Kentucky, then minority leader of the senate, was grumbling more or less openly about the state of drift. Barkley and the other leaders of the House and Senate at the White House ever consulted them or even so much as told them what was going to come up. Often they learned about coming events from their republican colleagues.

At both ends of Pennsylvania avenue there is a determination that this must not be allowed to happen again. The feeling has grown that the ordinary formalities observed between the capitol and White House are not enough and that a new and friendlier approach is necessary.

The White House has announced that there will be regular Monday morning meetings with the congressional leaders. But there are many on capitol hill who fear these meetings will become formalized and empty. They plan to suggest to the White House an evening meeting not less than every two weeks and preferably once a week. This would be the occasion for frank and free discussion of the program and of the problems facing the party in and out of congress.

Every president tends by the very nature of the office to be walled off in protective isolation. During the earlier Roosevelt years there was intense jealousy and resentment on capitol hill of the new deal brain trusters and advisers surrounding the president. They were accused of deliberately blocking access to the White House.

When Truman inherited the office, it was said that one of his advantages would lie in the close friendships established through his 10 years in the senate. He would be able to work as a friend and colleague with his old associates.

There were outward manifestations of a continuing friendship, such as when the president drove up to the capitol to lunch with his pals of the past. But this was on the surface. In actuality, the gulf between the two branches of government widened until it was an almost unbridgeable abyss.

In his lofty stratospheric campaign last fall Gov. Thomas E. Dewey talked about the unity he meant to achieve in Washington as president. He could point to his achievement in Albany in persuading his enemies would say coercing—the majorities of his own party in the legislature to go along with the Dewey program.

While the unity theme was ridiculed after the Nov. 2 defeat, many will have the Dewey promises in mind as they follow the record of the new congress. Against that background, feuding between Truman and anti-Truman blocs, between north and south, between White House and congress will be even more conspicuous.

It will not be easy for the democrats to achieve a minimum of harmony. The president in his campaign made a great many pledges for change and reform and certain of those pledges go directly counter to the prejudices and convictions of prominent democrats. Behind the scenes the republicans will be looking for every opportunity to stir dissension.

If the 81st congress writes a feeble record, full of evasion and failure, the democrats will have no alibi. In '45 and '46 the president could say that he had inherited his office with its manifold worries and woes. During the next two years he had republican majorities in the 80th congress as a perfect alibi. In the new year the Truman democrats are on their own.

Senators' Big Worries Is Money

Present Tax Laws May Do, Says Callan

Money matters provided the top problem confronting Nebraska's 43 lawmakers as they convened Tuesday. On that they agreed.

But solution of that problem is another question. And the mulling of 43 ideas on the subject is expected to provide the real fireworks of the 1949 legislature, and to determine how long it will last.

Sen. John Callan of Odell, chairman of the appropriations committee two years ago, believes the state can do all right under present tax laws.

He said, "As far as state appropriations are concerned, I think we are okay. But the counties and municipalities need relief, and that is where our real financial problem lies."

Assessments Hit

The senator believes the state would have enough money but for "our dilapidated system of assessments."

He said, "Our assessments are not in line with today's conditions."

Callan suggested that specialists be hired to do the assessing in Nebraska. He added, "it probably would be costly, but it's worth it."

Outside of finances, Callan indicated that roads and schools would be the unicameral's other big headaches.

"On roads," he said, "we must determine just how far the state wants to go—how big we are going to make the state highway system. My personal aim is to get the farmers out of the mud."

"The Schroeder bill (mail route traveling act) is a start, but in Gage county right now there probably are as many farmers living off mail routes as on them."

As for broadening the tax base to include a state sales tax, Sen. N. F. Schroeder of Hoskins had this to say:

"If we meet current requests for funds, certainly a new form of tax will be needed. There is less outstate opposition to a sales tax than two years ago."

Sen. Arthur Carmody of Trenton, a veteran of five terms in the legislature, takes the stand that if a sales tax becomes necessary, it should be used only as a replacement.

"People are beginning to recognize that property levies are high, and they are starting to talk about a sales tax," said Carmody. Other senators have discussed it with me privately."

Sen. Harry Burnham of Sargent said, "Yes, I think we'll have to have more taxes of some kind. But I don't know where we'll get them."

Schools, Roads Problems

Both he and Carmody and Schroeder placed roads and schools near the head of their lists of "problems."

That the legislators are economy-minded was indicated by a suggestion made by Sen. William J. Norman of Omaha at yesterday's school for new members. He advised his colleagues to introduce few bills, because the cost of printing them has jumped from three or four dollars to five dollars per page.

Federal Court To Hear Tax Suit

Federal Judge John W. Delehant denied a petition to remand the case of Elmer Logeman against Gus Stock to Lancaster county District court.

Logeman is asking $2,500 damages in the suit from Stock, a deputy collector of internal revenue. The complaint alleges that Stock "... submitted false and fictitious figures to the collector of internal revenue for Nebraska."

The misrepresentations allegedly occurred in auditing and verifying the return on Logeman's 1945 income tax return. Judge Delehant, in a memorandum filed with the order denying the petition, said the matter "certainly" came under the "color of office" clause in Federal rulings allowing removal to Federal court.

Ohioan Sentenced On Larceny Charge

Roland T. Felton, 20, Cincinnati, Ohio, was sentenced to three years in the state penitentiary Tuesday by District Judge Ralph P. Wilson.

Felton pleaded guilty to a state charge of grand larceny. The Ohio youth admitted stealing a $50 wrist watch from his roommate of a few days.

He was arrested by city police early Monday morning two hours after the theft was reported.

West O Patrol Is Favored

Ballroom Operators, Safety Director Meet

Concentrated patrolling of highway U. S. No. 6 during the most hazardous hours is considered the immediate solution to the West O traffic problem by representatives of the West O ballrooms.

The representatives met with Gifford Mullins, Lincoln-Lancaster Safety Council director, Tuesday. The group was one of several West O interests that have been invited to discuss the traffic problems and possible solutions with the council.

One ballroom manager said five state safety patrol cars were on duty New Year's eve on the Lincoln-Emerald portion of the highway and noted no accidents were reported for West O for a sight considered especially high in traffic accidents.

Hazards Mentioned.

They considered safety education as necessary and expressed willingness to co-operate with the safety council. Safety posters, short announcements (most ballrooms do make such announcements) and a safety sign at the ground's exit were considered desirable.

Other hazards mentioned were the lack of blinker lights at dangerous intersections where traffic seemed to warrant such installation and the offset of the pavement where pavement was later added to make a four-lane highway.

V. C. Sloan, ballroom manager and a former engineer with the state highway department, was selected to represent the group with the safety council and a later West O safety meeting with state, county, and city traffic agencies to be held in February.

Woods Fund Gift To Expand Seating At Pinewood Bowl

Additional seating for Pinewood Memorial bowl at Pioneers park will be provided with the gift of $500 received from the Woods Charitable Fund, by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Woods, following action taken at the Tuesday meeting of the Community Singfest committee.

No estimate was made of how many seats the amount would purchase. The bowl now seats 3,000 persons, according to Committee President Norma Carpenter. Floyd Campbell and Inez Conley are in charge of the purchase of the new seats.

A series of singfests during the Easter season, to start March 6, are planned and reports were heard on the Christmas series held at St. Paul Methodist church.

Patrol Aids In Search For 70 ... Missing In Blizzard

Troopers of the state safety patrol are checking the whereabouts of 70 persons in the panhandle area who have been reported missing in the blizzard by families or employers, Capt. C. J. Sanders said Wednesday.

In the Alliance section, Trooper Myron E. Frerichs has been equipped with an army jeep to hunt those reported missing and aid local police in getting food to stormbound persons.

Concern has been expressed for a fuel oil trucker, who was rushing last minute deliveries to farmers when he finally became stalled. He left the truck to walk to the next farm house, leaving a boy helper in the truck. The boy was rescued, but it has been impossible to determine whether the driver reached the next farm as there are no telephone facilities.

Sgt. Leo E. Knudsen, with frosted hands, feet and ears, is snowbound in a farmhouse just outside Scottsbluff and unable to reach town. Trooper Dale E. Justice is at a farm 12 miles west of Scottsbluff.

The two troopers had just reached town conveying a large number of cars, the last to reach the city, when they received pleas for help from two expectant mothers to get them to the hospital. Both became stalled on this trip.

No word has been received on the mothers and babies.

Young New Head Of Lincoln SCS Chapter

Gladwin Young Tuesday night was elected president of the Lincoln chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America at a meeting at the Y.W.C.A. He succeeds Dr. A. D. Stoess.

Other officers elected were Adrien C. Fox, vice-president; Joe Turelle, secretary-treasurer and council member; John S. Shunk and Dr. T. M. McCalla.

Ross Davies, South Dakota state conservationist from Huron, S. D., reported on the national convention which was held in December at Cincinnati, O.

Sen. Metzger Chosen New L.C. Chairman

Senator William Metzger, Cedar Creek, Tuesday was named chairman of the legislative council to replace former Senator Fred Seaton, Hastings, who was defeated for re-election to the legislature. Sen. Metzger was elected unanimously.

Sen. William Hern, Chadron, defeated Sen. Lester Anderson, Aurora, for vice chairman of the council. Sen. Ray Carlberg, Pender, former vice chairman was also defeated in his bid for re-election to the legislature.

$24,272 Expended. A budget report at the council meeting showed a total of $24,272 in expenditures during the period from July 1, 1947 to Nov. 30, 1948, from the budget of $39,423. The costs included $15,648 for salaries and wages, $6,078 for meetings of the council and its sub-committees, and $2,546 in office incidentals.

After publishing of the Nebraska Blue Book, maintaining the bill drafting service during December and the payment of salaries and wages for the remaining seven months in the biennium, the council expects to have an unexpended account amounting to nearly $1,000.

During the current biennium, the council has studied 12 subjects, ranging from school re-districting in the state to murals and panel decoration for the interior of the state house. Recommendations on the subjects were made by the council and will be communicated to the legislature.

Greek Rebels Seek Red Rule

Greek guerrillas are keeping their country in "constant turmoil" in hopes that a communistic government may be established, in the opinion of Dwight Griswold, former Nebraska governor and director of the recent U. S. aid mission to Greece.

Speaking to the Men's club of First Methodist church, he said the "object" of communist leaders "is to get the United States out of Europe so that communism can take over."

According to Griswold, the guerrillas try to keep the country in a crisis hoping that it will eventually become a communist state. Communists in the rebel ranks are small in number, about 5 per cent, but include many leaders.

Only 10 to 12 per cent of the Greek populace would vote communist if an election were held now, he estimated.

"The system of government is inefficient and responsibility is too diffused," he said. "The Greeks are afraid of powerful men in their government."

"Probably the chief economic difficulty is that 8,000,000 people are trying to live on land that might support 5,000,000 well, but not so well as in the United States," he stated.

Although the guerrilla forces number 30,000 as against 180,000 government troops, the rebels aren't being out-fought, because their "fighting consists of raiding, not to capture territory, but to keep the country constantly in turmoil," he explained.

Jacob Dering Dies; Lincolnite 46 Years

Jacob Dering, 82, 1202 New Hampshire street, a Lincoln resident for 46 years, died at his home Tuesday afternoon.

Born Jan. 6, 1862, Mr. Dering retired about 30 years ago because of ill health. He was a member of the Emmanuel Reformed church.

Mrs. Dering died in 1942. Surviving are one son, George, Lincoln; six daughters, Mrs. John Glantz, Portland, Ore., Mrs. Henry Weber, Lincoln, Mrs. George Ross, Harvard, Mrs. Kasper Achtemeier, Lincoln, Mrs. Jake Streck, Hastings, and Mrs. George Amend, Kansas City, Mo.; 14 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Policeman's Son And Cobbler's Son In Same Position

Lincoln police Wednesday were looking for a thief who had enough nerve to steal a suitcase from a policeman's son while he and his father were standing within a few feet of the bag.

Sgt. Al Delaney reported that he was seeing his son off on a bus Tuesday morning when the suitcase was taken. His son left the bag on a bench in the bus depot and bought a ticket at the window. When he returned the suitcase was gone.

National Guard And Reserve Survey Asked ... By Secretary Royall

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Secretary of the Army Royall today asked a special committee to determine whether the present national guard and organized reserve setups are "adequate" for national defense needs.

The committee will have 12 members, headed by former Secretary of State James F. Byrnes. Royall in an announcement that the army wants to find out "what forces would be needed to implement joint plans for security of the United States."

Currently authorized strengths of the national guard and of the organized reserve corps were formulated shortly after V-J day, the announcement said. "Since that time the national and international situations have changed considerably."

'48 Sleet Storms Cost Northwestern Bell $1,450,000

OMAHA—(AP)—The year just closed cost Northwestern Bell Telephone company its heaviest sleet losses in many years, the company reported today as crews were sent out to repair new storm damage.

The company said that during 1948 six major sleet storms caused a total of $1,450,000 damage in the five state areas served by the company—Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota and the Dakotas. The average annual loss due to storms for the previous 10 years was about $250,000, the announcement said.

Northwestern Bell reported the current storm area moved into South Dakota last night and there was danger of additional troubles between Mitchell and Sioux Falls, S. D., and around Watertown, S. D. Eighteen southwestern Minnesota towns were reported isolated from outside communication today after 307 long distance telephone circuits went down under the ice load and high winds.

Nine northeast Nebraska towns were isolated today after 209 long distance lines went down under ice loads ranging from a quarter of an inch to an inch in thickness. A portable short wave radio was sent into the area to bridge a gap between Randolph and Norfolk, Neb. The company expected to restore service to all Nebraska communities today.

Legislators Offer 17 Bills On First Day

61st State Session
Off To Fast Start

The 61st session of the Nebraska legislature convening at noon Tuesday, gave evidence that it will be a "working" session by introduction of 17 bills on the opening day. Veteran members led the move to get work under way by having their bills ready to be sent to the printer.

Two senators offered bills to nullify the action of the last session, which hurriedly passed the community property law with arguments that it would provide a saving of millions of dollars to the state in income taxes. Congress later changed federal statutes to bring all states within the exemptions given community property states.

The first repeal bill to fall in the hopper was by Sen. Lester Anderson of Aurora. Sen. O. H. Person of Wahoo dropped his repeal bill in as LB 13. His bill also provides limitation of claims to community property.

School Bills Offered.

The first bills introduced were LBs 1 and 2 by Senators Hoyt, Metzger and Carmody, who had twin measures recommended by the sub-committee of the Legislative council. The committee had made a study of recodification of school laws. The first was a recodification bill of 160 pages which is planned to correct inconsistencies and duplications in present laws.

The second bill enlarges the purposes for which all districts may issue bonds, including retirement of warrants and additions or repairs to buildings. Maximum of bonds is fixed at 40 per cent of assessed value of all property in the district.

Increase of the maximum payments for old age and blind assistance from $50 to $60 is provided in bills introduced by Sens. Carmody and Benesch.

In a series of bills introduced by members of the Douglas county delegation, regents of the University of Omaha would be empowered to provide self liquidating dormitories, dining rooms, etc., by means of bond issues similar to provisions for state colleges. They also offered a retirement bill for the university staff.

Changes In Certification.

Changes in the election laws in metropolitan cities were also provided in the bills introduced.

Sens. Thomas Adams of Lancaster and John P. McKnight of Nemaha offered two bills to change the present laws on certification of teachers. One would require that after Sept. 1, 1950, college degrees be required for the equivalent of the present senior grade certificate rather than the present requirement of 90 hours of college work.

The second bill provides for an accreditation committee that would accredit teachers for elementary and secondary schools. The state superintendent would prescribe the procedure and appoint the committees.

At caucuses of senators on the basis of congressional districts, members of the committee on committees were selected to serve under the chairmanship of Sen. Harry Pizer of North Platte, who

Contract Breach Charged In Suit By Power District

Trial before Federal Judge John W. Delehant was begun Tuesday morning in the breach of contract suit of Consumers Public Power against Co-operative Refinery association, a Kansas corporation, and third party defendants Terry Carpenter and Hazel-deane Carpenter.

Consumers is asking damages of $18,511.51 from the defendants, alleging that the co-operative refused to furnish fuel oil under the terms of a contract executed in 1939.

The contract was originally between Carpenter's oil firm and the Western Public Service company. The oil firm assets were sold to the co-operative Dec. 1, 1941, and Western Public Service sold out to Consumers Jan. 2, 1942.

According to the co-operative, the contract was repudiated by plaintiff before the sale of the Scottsbluff refinery to the co-op, and that therefore the obligations were not assumed by the co-op. The oil is used at Consumers plants at Ogallala and Sidney. Consumers alleges that because of a breach of contract they were forced to buy elsewhere at a higher price than specified in the contract.

The suit is located in the North Platte division of the Nebraska district of the Federal court, but the trial is being held in the Lincoln court for convenience.

16-Year-Old Youth Kills 2, Injures Third

... Made Him Wash Dishes

DELTA, Colo.—(AP)—Richard Guy Pruett, 16, signed a statement last night saying he shot two women to death and seriously wounded his half brother because:

1. They wouldn't let him listen to murder thrillers on the radio.
2. They made him wash dishes.
3. He didn't like the way "a lot of things were run" around the ranch of his half-brother.
The shootings occurred yesterday.

George Morris, the rancher, was shot through the jaw. His wife, Laura, and her sister, Mrs. Edith Janlorina, were hit in the head by .22 caliber bullets from a repeater rifle and died almost instantly. Sheriff Leonard Wilcox, who arrested Pruett and witnessed the signing of the statement, said the shooting occurred at the ranch home near Hotchkiss, about 21 miles northeast of here. The sheriff quoted the youth as saying he had wanted to kill the man and the two women for some time and on two other occasions laid his plans, then decided "the time wasn't right for it."

Purchase Of Surgical Unit Is Approved

By Council; Action Held To Be Illegal

The city council Monday unanimously approved the open market purchase of an electro surgical unit for Lincoln General hospital. The action was taken despite an opinion from the legal department which held that the action was illegal.

The city's charter prohibits purchase on the open market of any item costing more than $500 unless an emergency is declared. The machine, ordered from an Ohio firm, will cost $865 f.o.b. Cincinnati. According to the charter, bids should have been called for.

Their action was taken after a letter from T. J. McGinty, hospital administrator, was read. It explained that a similar machine was available from a Lincoln supply house but that hospital administrator had refused to use it because it was of a type other than they wanted.

Other council action included:
1. Approving the use of a certain type of wallboard in residences. At present building codes prohibit its use. The exception was granted P. M. Chittenden, 841 North Forty-eighth.
2. Setting up a $2,500 "city planning fund." The money was recently donated to the planning commission by the Cooper Foundation.
3. Approved the $3,025 bid by the Westinghouse company on an oil circuit breaker for use by the water department. The other bid, by the General Electric company, was lower but had a 10 per cent escalator clause.

About 99 per cent of the earth's atmosphere is nitrogen and oxygen.

Demos Lead Important Committees

8-5 Ratio In Foreign Relations Unit Stirs Republican Protests

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A decision by senate democrats to take a three-vote edge in the foreign relations committee stirred a storm of republican protest today. GOP senators called it a threat to the bipartisan foreign policy.

The senate democratic steering committee agreed late yesterday to assign eight party members to the important foreign relations unit, and to give the republicans only five places. In the last congress, controlled by the GOP, the division was seven republicans to six democrats.

In an obvious move to ease the way for president Truman's legislative program, the democratic leadership also decided on an eight to five division in seven other strategic committees: Labor, banking, agriculture, judiciary, rules, commerce and public works.

Seven-Six Ratio.
On the vital appropriations committee there will be 13 democrats and eight republicans. Under the GOP the split was 12 to nine.

The democrats decided on a seven to six lineup in the six other senate committees: Armed services, expenditures, interior, post-office and civil service, District of Columbia and finance.

Maintaining the seven-to-six finance committee ratio puzzled some republicans who had expected a bigger democratic edge to help put through Mr. Truman's tax revision program.

Will Help Truman.

The democrats' three-man margin in eight committees and five in appropriations, all made possible because of their 12-vote majority in the new senate will be an important factor in the drive to carry out the party platform.

The democrats' decision to abandon the seven to six ratio in the foreign relations committee came as a surprise. There had been talk it would be maintained in the interests of bipartisan foreign policy.

Sen. Vandenberg (Mich.), chairman of the committee during the GOP-dominated 80th congress and now ranking minority member, called the decision "regrettable and not particularly impressive in its bipartisan hospitality."

The sharpest criticism came from Sen. Morse (R-Ore.), whose application for membership on the committee was voted by the decision.
He termed the step "a shocking repudiation of the bipartisan foreign policy in the senate."

German Baby Born With Two Heads, Three Legs Is Dead

STREETCAR, BUS STRIKE CALLED OFF

... In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE—(AP)—The executive board of an AFL transportation workers union called off a strike of streetcar operators and bus drivers which had been set for 4 a. m. today.

George Koehel, president of Division 998, AFL Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees, said the board instructed union members to return to work and comply with Circuit court order issued last night forbidding the strike.

The union membership of 2,800 voted Monday to give the board power to call a strike, following rejection of a 7 cents an hour wage increase offered by the transport company. The union asked a hike of 15 cents.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

publicly. When Brooks declined, Douglas recalled how Abraham Lincoln was not "too big" to debate Stephen A. Douglas.

"Senator Brooks must feel that he is a bigger man than Lincoln," he heckled the Illinois democrat.

Douglas is a massive six-foot, 200-pounder, but is also big in other ways. Intensely patriotic, he enlisted in the marines at the age of 50, was wounded twice in Pacific action and won the bronze star for heroism against the Japs on bloody Peleliu.

The new senator is best known, however, as a battle-scarred veteran of economic combat for the common man. Franklin Roosevelt, while governor of New York, was one of the first to recruit his liberal talents, naming Douglas secretary of the New York committee to stabilize employment.

Later Douglas worked under President Roosevelt on the NRA consumers advisory board. And when utility interests were gouging Chicago consumers in the early '30s, it was Douglas who led the fight to reduce gas and electric rates. He battled equally as hard for adequate unemployment relief during the depression years.

Douglas was one of the earliest advocates of old-age pensions and unemployment insurance, drafted the first old-age pension act passed by the Illinois legislature in 1935, assisted in drafting the federal social security act and from 1937 to 1939 served on a senate advisory committee on social security.

Despite his war wounds, Douglas, at 56, has the rugged health and stamina of a man much younger. He attributes this to hard knocks in his youth. Born in Salem, Massachusetts, he grew up on a Maine farm.

At Bowdoin college, the new senator from Illinois starred as center on the football team, took graduate studies at Columbia and Harvard, paying his own way by odd jobs as a table waiter, a Jello salesman and a baggage porter.

The Illinoisian has authored many books on economics, one of them, "The Theory of Wages," won a $5,000 prize in an international competition. Douglas is married to Emily Taft Douglas, former congresswoman - at - large from Illinois, and daughter of Sculptor Lorenzo Taft.

1st ANNUAL REPORT TO OUR PATRONS

On January 1, 1948, the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad Company returned to private operation; and at that time we promised that our program of Planned Progress—continued improvement in Plant, in Equipment, in Service—shall go forward for the best interests of passengers and freight shippers, security holders and employees. This is our first report to you, the public, whose patronage and good will are essential to the success of this program.

While Rock Island has been identified with mid-America since 1852, it is physically and essentially a new railroad. Our fleet of 20 ultra-modern, Diesel-powered streamlined trains were further improved in 1948 by the addition of new, luxurious Chair Cars, all-room Sleeping Cars, Dining and Parlor Lounge Cars. Fast Rocket Freight service was added to more divisions of the road last year. Our 8,000-mile Roadway was further improved—more than $50,000,000 have been spent in this modernization program.

However, physical plant and equipment alone does not make a good railroad. Equally important are the skill and effort of the men and women who serve you. Guided by able directors who live in and know the region we serve, we officers and employees of the new Rock Island Lines reaffirm our pledge to give you even better transportation in 1949. Watch Rock Island for progress!

Crete Council Objecting To Train Changes

Town Makes United Effort Opposing Revised Schedule

(Special to The Star)

CRETE, Neb.—The Crete city council has gone on record as objecting to the revised Burlington train schedule placed in effect last Sunday.

This action was taken at the regular meeting of the city council earlier this week, according to Mayor Thomas J. Aron. New schedules of Nos. 22 and 5 leave Crete without any regular daylight train service west, the council pointed out.

A united effort is being put forth by the Crete chamber of commerce and local businessmen opposing the revised mail and passenger train service.

Exciting Day For News

NO ONE COULD PROPHECY when the newspaper went to bed Tuesday, that Wednesday would be such an exciting day in the news—socially speaking, we mean.

First comes an announcement of a betrothal—Add to that some interesting news which concerns a most attractive Lincoln girl and a young man from not too far away—Stir in a word or two about a wedding that is to take place on Monday, and the result is a very tasty concoction—with frosting.

WITH SO MUCH TO TALK about perhaps we should begin with the Lincoln lovely whose name we will reveal tomorrow—perhaps—Anyway, she has attended school in the east, and also the University of Nebraska—She is a popular member of the young set, and it is nice to know that the wedding will not take her too far away—Her fiancé is a graduate of Cornell university, Ithaca, N. Y.

OUR BETROTHAL ANNOUNCEMENT involves a former Lincoln man and a Maryland Delta Gamma—and here it is:

Announcement is made today of the engagement of Miss Effie Hardee Ingalls, daughter of Mrs. Justus Roberts Ingalls of Washington, D. C., and St. Petersburg, Fla., to Glenn Corvill, also of St. Petersburg, formerly of Lincoln, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Corvill, and brother of Earl Corvill of Lincoln.

Wedding plans will be announced later.

Miss Ingalls is a graduate of Chevy Chase junior college and the University of Maryland where she is a member of Delta Gamma sorority. Miss Ingalls now is active in organizing a Delta Gamma colony at the University of Florida. She is the niece of former Governor Cary A. Hardee of Florida.

Mr. Corvill is a former student at the University of Nebraska. He enlisted as a private in the armed forces prior to World war II, and, after five years of duty in the European theater, was discharged from the army with the rank of major. He now is associated with H. E. McCardell in the mortgage loan and real estate business in St. Petersburg.

WE CAN'T GIVE THE exact hour, but we do know that there are definite plans for a wedding on Monday, January 10.

THE BRIDE, Miss Dorothy

MISS EFFIE HARDEE INGALLS

Bose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bose, former student at the University of Nebraska, and a member of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority.

THE BRIDEGROOM: John M. Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Campbell—Alpha Tau Omega at Nebraska.

IT ALWAYS IS FUN TO HEAR news of people you "used to know"—Interesting news from Chicago tells us that Mrs. Fred Verink—the former Lois Baker of Lincoln—is becoming increasingly popular in entertainment circles in Chicago because of her beautiful soprano voice — and also, perhaps, because of her good looks and pleasing personality.

Mrs. Verink is one of the "Mello Modes," heard on the air every now and then—In addition she has had singing engagements at the Palmer House, the Lake Shore Athletic club, and beginning this week will be seen and heard weekly on a television program from Chicago.

THEN—SOMEONE TOLD US that Miss Adeline Moeller, former coed at the University of Nebraska, where she is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi, and who the past several years has been associated with Vogue's Paris staff, has returned to the States, and now is editor of the interior decoration department for Bride's magazine.

WHEN YOU THUMB through your February issue of Mademoiselle, pause a moment to read the story of the typical midwest young couple—It has to do with Mr. and Mrs. William Westerman (Margaret Dickerson) of Lexington, Mademoiselle, so we are told, is doing a series of stories on young marrieds who own their own business and co-operate on careers. Mr. and Mrs. Westerman, both graduate pharmacists, own a pharmacy at Lexington.

Incidentally—Mrs. Westerman is a Pi Beta Phi at Nebraska.

THERE ARE INTERESTING PEOPLE in town, too—Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Hodges have come from Ann Arbor, Mich., to remain until Sunday as the house guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. Marshall Neely.

Dr. Hodges, professor of radiology at the University of Michigan college of medicine, will speak at the staff meeting at Veterans hospital this evening.

During their stay here Dr. and Mrs. Hodges are being entertained at numerous informal affairs.

SPEAKING OF THE MEDICAL profession—Dr. and Mrs. Patrick Leonard will be leaving soon for New Orleans where Dr. Leonard will spend six months at Tulane university college of medicine where he will take special work in orthopedics.

LEAVING THURSDAY to return to their home in Berkeley, Cal., will be Mr. and Mrs. Don Horning and their two daughters, Martha and Virginia Lou, who have been spending the holidays with Mrs. Horning's parents, Dr. and Mrs. George Walker.

EVERYONE WITH A sweet tooth will be interested in the news of the plans for the Junior League party to be held Saturday evening, January 22. "Candyland" is the theme, and we hear that the committee, composed of Mrs. Don North, chairman; Mrs. William Stenten, Mrs. Oril A. Barner, jr., Mrs. Joe P. Fallon, Mrs. Harold Hoppe, Mrs. Hoyt Hawke, Mrs. Harry Prouty, Mrs. William Mowbray, Mrs. William Beachly and Mrs. Donald Cunningham—has some very fancy things in mind.

Announcement of the party theme and date was made at the regular January meeting of the L.J.L. on Tuesday afternoon at Hotel Cornhusker. During the meeting Mrs. Lowell Bruce Dwinell (Anne Kinder), of Chicago told of her work with the Children's theater in the Chicago Junior League. Mrs. Giles Hendle, who will direct the Lincoln League's production, "Aladdin and the Wonderful Lamp," to be presented at Lincoln schools this spring, discussed plans for the play.

SATURDAY SEEMS TO be meeting day for some of the Greek letter alumnae — Pi Beta Phi alumnae, for instance, will meet for luncheon at the home of Mrs. Victor Anderson.

AND THE DELTA GAMMA alumnae will have a 12:30 o'clock luncheon and regular meeting at the home of Mrs. A. C. Lau. The luncheon committee includes Mrs. Lyle Holland, chairman; Mrs. Arthur Smith, jr., Mrs. Walter Nolte, Mrs. John Unthank, Mrs. Rems Heiny, Miss Joan Shaw, Mrs. Harry Haynie, and Mrs. L. F. Klein.

MRS. R. F. GROTELUSCHEN

Before her marriage at the Calvary Lutheran church on Monday, December 20, Mrs. Roland F. Groteluschen was Miss Joyce Ann Rosenlof, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Rosenlof.

Both Mr. Groteluschen, son of J. A. Groteluschen of Columbus, and his bride are attending the University of Nebraska where Mrs. Groteluschen is a junior in teachers' college, and where the bridegroom is attending the college of agriculture. He is a member of Beta Sigma Phi fraternity.

Begin Rescue Operations For Group At Big Springs

Truck Taking Stranded From Filling Station; Marooned In One Room Building Since Sunday

(Special To The Star.)

BIG SPRINGS, Neb.—The first rescue truck arrived at a snow-bound filling station north of here Wednesday morning to remove some 60 persons stranded in the one-room building since Sunday.

The marooned bus passengers, truck drivers and motorists were being transported into Big Springs, one and three-quarters mile south of the Junction filling station.

New supplies of fuel oil and food arrived for the marooned Tuesday afternoon via sled. These were brought from Big Springs, one and three-quarters mile south of the station, by men who walked in the day.

According to Mrs. Rose Bowker, a waitress at the station, the fuel oil situation became critical Tuesday. Several truckers, stranded at the station, had drained their tanks of fuel oil in order to keep the building's heater going.

However, with the new supplies the situation was much brighter Wednesday.

Tuesday afternoon a group of 19 men left the station to walk into Big Springs.

Truck Driver's Feet Frozen.

A snowplow left North Platte Tuesday en route to Big Springs, but time of arrival here remains indefinite.

Mrs. Bowker said there were 70 states, including New York, Oklahoma, Nebraska, and others, represented by the original group of 90 marooned at the filling station. Thirty-five passengers of a Greyhound bus were among those stalled.

One of the truck drivers suffered a frozen foot while walking several miles to the station from his stalled vehicle. However, he was recovering and was able to walk into Big Springs Tuesday afternoon.

The menu for the stranded has consisted mostly of "soup and eggs," Mrs. Bowker said. There has been no bread, either at the station or in Big Springs itself, for the past two days.

Although it was still drifting here Wednesday morning, the snow stopped sometime during the night. Ten foot drifts cover the surrounding countryside.

Two small children are among the stranded in the one room filling station.

Assisting Mrs. Bowker with the cooking for the "unexpected guests" is Mrs. Agnes Christy, also of Big Springs.

We Hear That—

Announcement has been made of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Teton Powell on Tuesday, January 4, at Lincoln General hospital. Mrs. Powell is the former Dorothy Ryder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ryder. Other Lincoln grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James Kunc, jr.

Wayward Snow Storm Veered North, Not East

And Eastern Nebraska Missed Blizzard's Impact

A sudden change in course — which came as a surprise even to weathermen — was given Wednesday as the reason why eastern Nebraska escaped the blizzard, which has so far dumped from 15 to 48 inches of snow on northwestern Nebraska.

Weatherman R. A. Dyke, of Lincoln, said today he agreed fully with Omaha Forecaster E. F. Stapovich's explanation of why the storm veered suddenly last Monday and missed Lincoln and Omaha after an earlier storm warning for this area.

Monday the storm, composed of revolving winds, was centered over southwestern Oklahoma. By noon it had moved eastward into northeastern Kansas and was expected to continue on that course.

Omaha in "Eye."

Instead the storm began to move directly northward. By 6 p. m. Monday, Omaha was virtually in the center of the storm. However, the center of the storm, like the "eye" of a hurricane, was marked by calm weather, with winds revolving around it.

After passing the Lincoln-Omaha area the storm center moved north and west. It is now centered over Lake Superior with such towns in Nebraska as Kimball and Seneca and Phillips and Pierce in South Dakota still facing blizzard conditions because of the revolving winds.

Weatherman Dyke said usually the storms move from west to east, but this one moved north instead which is unusual. So strange was the blizzard that Tuesday afternoon a blizzard raged at Wood Lake, while 20 miles east, at Ainsworth only a light snow was falling.

ne man's Opinion

(Distributed by International News Serv.)

Now that babies are being government-registered as quickly as they are born there will be the usual rush for a low number.

But until we get accustomed to the idea, a nurse should not rush up to a man expecting twins and cry, "Congratulations! You are the father of 168 29-00032!"

He might gasp before he expired, "And I thought two pairs of booties was enough!"

Well, it will be a sad day for matrimony when the "over 20" prospective bride has to give her serial number for the license.

January 20 will be a sad day for President Truman unless congress has raised his salary by then.

It now appears that he will have to get the increase by then, wait for four years, or join the CIO.

Cattle Price Drop Brings Much Concern

Weekly Weather, Crop Report Shows

Cattle feeders are showing considerable caution in purchasing replacement stock, the state-federal bureau of agricultural statistics said today.

"The decline in the price of fat cattle has placed the cattle feeder in a precarious situation for making a profit.

"The decline in the price of hogs is also causing some concern among farmers, and unless the price shows an upturn or grain prices go down further, breeding intentions of 18 per cent above last spring may not be fully realized," the bureau stated.

Heavy Feed Needs.

The weekly crop report added that feed requirements for all livestock have been heavier than usual as snows covered range feed from early in the winter.

The bureau commented that the recent blizzard and cold weather in the western area is causing considerable shrinkage of weight on livestock.

Winter wheat was reported as continuing in good condition all over the state.

The snow covering is providing good protection for the crop.

COUNTY AGENT'S REPORT SHOWS ACTIVE YEAR

The Lancaster county extension office Wednesday released the annual report covering 1948 activities of County Agent Vardon Peterson and Home Extension Agent Frances Runty.

Extension meetings held in the county during the year totaled 1,088. Total attendance at the meetings was 12,323. The large attendance, plus office visits, farm visits, and the 56 radio programs last year indicate that the extension service is reaching a large part of the county's rural population, County Agent Peterson said.

One of the more important activities was the work with 4-H clubs. The sixty-five clubs in the county listed 489 members, carrying a total of 647 projects. Volunteer leaders of the club numbered 128.

Livestock Value High.

Total value of livestock raised by club members was more than $121,000. In the nine dairy clubs alone, the animals carried as projects produced milk worth $6,252. Of 350 animals entered in the state fair, only three placed below red ribbon rating. Total state fair premium money received in county 4-H members was $1,164.17.

Home Economics club members, including five boys enrolled in cooking clubs and one boy enrolled in a sewing club, totaled 302. Cooking club members canned an average of 24.6 quarts of fruits and vegetables per member. Sewing club members averaged slightly over six garments per member, and made savings averaging $10.80 each.

The county office assisted 47 farmers in getting their seed grain certified. Thirty-eight farmers co-operated with the College of Agriculture in research demonstrations on fly control. Other projects included an oats test plot and a fertilizer test on one farm.

The 43 home extension clubs in the county, with over 700 total membership held 562 meetings. From five to six hundred persons attended each set of demonstration meetings held in the county. Three different demonstrations were given during the year, each of which was presented at two consecutive meetings of each club.

Rabbi Friedman To Address N.W. Convocation

Rabbi Herbert A. Friedman, spiritual leader of Temple Emanuel, Denver, Colo., and a lecturer for the Jewish Chautauqua society, will address an all-school convocation at Nebraska Wesleyan university Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

Rabbi Friedman will speak on "What Every Christian Should Know About Judaism."

A graduate of Yale university and the Jewish Institute of Religion where he received a master of Hebrew letters degree in 1944, Rabbi Friedman served the Denver congregation for about one year before entering the U. S. army as a chaplain in 1945. He served with the army of occupation in Bavaria and later was the only Jewish chaplain in Berlin.

In the summer of 1946 he was invited by Rabbi Philip S. Bernstein, advisor to the commanding general on Jewish affairs, to serve as his aide in Poland. Upon returning from Poland he was invited to serve permanently as the aide and assistant to Rabbi Bernstein in Frankfurt, working primarily with Jewish displaced persons.

Upon his return to this country, Rabbi Friedman toured several cities with Henry Morgenthau, jr., chairman of the United Jewish Appeal, to tell the true story of Jewish displaced persons in Germany and Austria.

Unicam Ready To Tackle Problems With Veteran Solons In Key Posts

BY RANDALL W. BLAKE
It's your legislature. So here's a quick once-over on how it looked in getting under way Tuesday.
It's a younger legislature than for the past few sessions.
Replacements have been generally marked by the older leaders as good.
It was in a sober mood as the gavel pounded out the opening raps.
16 New Members.
An older member who has played a leading part in the past few sessions gazed around and generally put his stamp of approval on the new members.
There are 16 "new" members this session. A few of these have served in the past, but the great majority are making their first appearance as enactors of your laws.
The veteran member expressed his belief that the senators—all 43 of them—are anxious and ready to tackle their problems. And some of those problems are as tough as any the state has had for a long time.
"They are in a fine mood for work. They know the job they've got and they want to get at it," the veteran legislator commented.
"I think we can get our job done and get out of here earlier than some persons think. That's if we don't get into a long, hard fight over water diversion," he added.
As if to back him up, the senators later proceeded to drop in a few first day bills.
As is usually the case with Nebraska legislatures, the farmers have the greater number of votes.
As a bloc, they could cast 16 votes for or against any bill. That is three more than they could muster three years ago.
Lawyers Increase Forces.
Lawyers, too, have increased their forces in the senate. There are nine listed as lawyers. Some have other interests, too. Two years ago they numbered seven.
But no group has a majority in the breakdown of occupations of the 43 senators.
However, as a group it's our opinion they are going to have at least one thing in common.
Tough on Spending Tax Money.
They're going to be pretty tough about how they spend your tax money!
Those who want some of it are going to have to prove, and maybe reprove, their cases.
The senate organized with veterans in the key post.
They put the veteran Earl J.

M.P. ASKS DROP LINCOLN-UNION MORNING TRAIN
Authority to discontinue two passenger trains operating between Lincoln and Union was requested Wednesday by the Missouri Pacific railroad.
In an application filed with the railway commission the road asked to eliminate trains 606 and 609 "because of increased operating expenses and decreased earnings."
Discontinuance of the trains would eliminate morning service on the line. However, there still would be one train each way late in the afternoon.
Hearing on the request was set for Feb. 9.

15-Year-Old Kills Self After Quarrel With Boy Friend
DETROIT—(AP)—It was unbearable to pretty 15-year-old Donna Joyce that a "swell guy" like Bobby should call everything off.
To "all the kids" Donna wished "better luck than I had."
In the official records today her death was listed as a suicide.
And her grieving parents dwelt sorrowfully on her request to "Dress me in a black sweater and gray skirt and leave Bobby's ring around my neck."
Donna, a policeman's daughter, was found dying yesterday of a revolver shot in her chest.
The gun belonged to her father, Patrolman Herman Joyce.
In the living room beside her lay her farewell note—"I love Bobby too much to live without him."
Bobby, 17, was her high school boy friend. Recently they had quarreled.
Estate Inventory—An inventory of the estate of Bessie Burl Blakeslee, who died June 15, was filed in County court Wednesday. The inventory listed $7,250 in government bonds, 142 shares of various stocks and three lots in Lincoln.
Awnings Taken—Joe Taft, jr., 1836 South Fifteenth, reported the theft of two front window awnings from his car Tuesday night while it was parked in front of his home. He listed the value of the awnings at $8.50.

Stiner Also On NU List?

OREGON STATE MENTOR NAMED BY WEST COAST PAPER AS DEFINITE PROSPECT

PORTLAND, Ore. — (AP) — Still another hat is in the Nebraska coaching ring, according to reports here.

The Oregonian said Tuesday night that the University of Nebraska hopes to hire Lon Stiner of Oregon State college as football coach.

The paper quotes "an unimpeachable source" close to Oregon State athletic affairs as saying Stiner was first approached by Nebraska Athletic Director Patsy Clark before the Oregon State-Nebraska game here Nov. 27.

It added they talked several hours after the game and that the Nebraska athletic board since has been in communication with Stiner.

HUSKER GRAD.

Stiner, a graduate of Nebraska, where he starred as tackle, has been at Oregon State 16 years. He won the coast conference championship in 1941. This team this year defeated Nebraska, 28-12. Clark coached this year's Nebraska team, but wants to step out, devoting his time to the athletic directorship.

Oregon State officials at Corvallis had no comment. Stiner is at Palm Springs, Calif., for a coast conference meeting.

Others also have been mentioned for the Nebraska job. Coach Jim Aiken of Oregon confirmed this week that he had been approached, and Paul Brown, coach of the professional Cleveland Browns, also has been mentioned.

AIKEN SPEAKS.

Aiken, also at the coast meeting at Palm Springs, Calif., told Oregon U. officials that "he can have the Nebraska job if he wants it."

Howard Lemons, athletic business manager at the Oregon school, confirmed the report after Aiken had talked to him. Athletic Director Leo Harris of Oregon has also been notified by Aiken of the dealings with Nebraska.

Oregon university President Dr. Harry K. Newburn said at Eugene, Ore., that he had heard nothing of the reports but that he was sure Aiken was satisfied at Oregon.

Sooners Score Last Minute Jayhawk Win

NORMAN, Okla. — (AP) — The University of Oklahoma Sooners edged Kansas Jayhawks 38-36 in the opening Big Seven conference basketball game of the season here Tuesday night.

It was the second straight victory for Oklahoma for the Sooners. The Sooners won over Phog Allen's team in the pre-season tournament last week, 52-49.

Paul Courty's one-handed push shot in the final 10 seconds gave the Sooners their triumph.

A crowd of 5,000 saw the thrilling defensive cage battle. Trailing by seven points late in the second half, the Sooners rallied to tie the score with three minutes to play as Forward Claude Hochin dunked in a deep forecourt set shot.

The teams sparred around for an open shot and finally Oklahoma Guard Ken Pryor missed a layup with 14 seconds to play. The Jayhawks rebounded and Bill Sapp tried a field goal, but Courty cleared the backboard and dribbled downcourt to fire his game-winning shot.

Courty was held to six points by the stingy Kansas, but the Sooner sophomore connected at the perfect time to provide the Oklahoma's second straight victory over Kansas.

Kansas was held to five field goals in the first half and Oklahoma did not count until five minutes had elapsed, but went on to gain an 18 to 14 halftime lead.

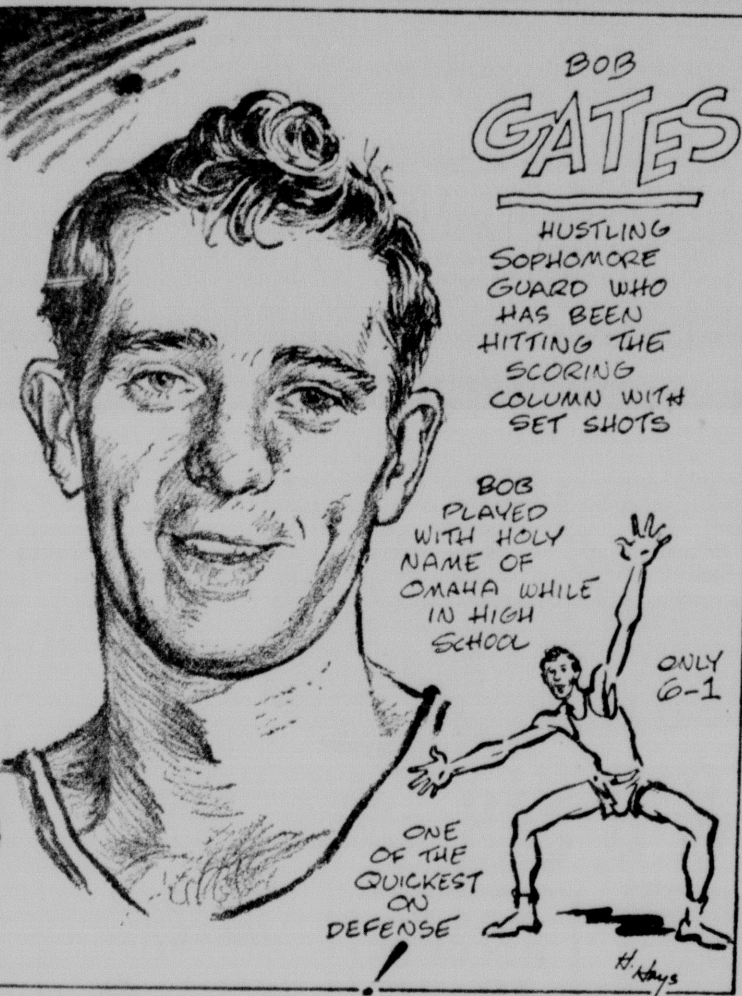

Center George Peterson (CQ) grabbed scoring honors, with 12 points followed by Better Bill Waters of the Sooners with 11.

(Special to The Star) WEEPING WATER, Neb.—Led by Melvin Sheary's 14 points, Waverly rolled to an easy 48-23 victory over Weeping Water high here, Tuesday night.

Waverly led at the half 21-9. The Weeping Water reserves defeated the Waverly seconds 25-21.

Gamblers' Bribes Hit Athletics

Many Scandals Rocked Pro, Amateur Sports

NEW YORK — (AP) — The arrest of four men Tuesday night on charges of attempting to bribe a George Washington university basketball player recalled a number of similar cases involving sports in recent years.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said the men were arrested after Captain David Shapiro of the Washington team had tipped off authorities on the bribery attempt.

Outstanding of the gambling cases involving college basketball was the Brooklyn college "scandal" of 1945.

ZBB j2B BBBB -oXX ETAOIN Five members of the Brooklyn team signed a statement they had received $1,000 to throw a scheduled game with Akron in Boston and they said arrangements were under way to fix another game later.

The game wasn't played. The players were expelled from school. Two men were arrested on gambling charges.

FLEISHMAN FINED. Last year Charles Maas, Butler university performer, said he was offered a $500 bribe to keep down the score of the Butler-Ohio university game. Maas said he hung up on the caller from New York and didn't get his name.

Less than a month ago Joe Fuks, a member of the Philadelphia team in the Professional Basketball Association of America, accused a pool room operator of trying to fix games.

On Dec. 10 Fuks told a Philadelphia magistrate that Morris Fleishman offered him money to throw games. Fleishman was released on $1,500 bail after being arrested on a misdemeanor charge.

The gambling scandal reached out and touched other sports. Last March Clarence S. Campbell, president of the National Hockey league, expelled Billy Taylor of the New York Rangers and suspended Don Gallinger of the Boston Bruins.

He accused Taylor of "knowingly associating and communicating with a known gambler."

Pro football was affected late in 1946 when Frank Filchock and Merle Hapes, both of the New York Giants, were implicated with Alvin J. Paris.

The first match will start at 7:30 and it will be Dad's day. Fathers of the Nebraska wrestlers have been invited to sit on the bench and will be introduced along with their sons before each match, Coach Patterson said.

Louis Caniglia, Omaha, who decided Ken Brown, Columbus, as the final fight will represent the Huskers at 121 pounds. Brown tried again at 124 pounds but Harold Gilliland, Curtis, decided Brown, 8-3.

Mickey Sprano, Omaha, beat John Schartz, Curtis, 2-1 for the 136 pound position. Jack Tamai, Omaha, decided Robert Russell, Salina, Kas., 5-2, to get the 145-pound title. Russell likely will be the 155 pound representative and Earl Schneider of Snyder, will handle the 165 pound division.

Herbert Reese, Omaha, lashed as the most promising sophomore wrestler, will get the 175-pound position with Captain DiBiase as the heavyweight.

While Coach Patterson says his front line wrestlers are not as strong as a year ago he looks for vast improvement before the season ends.

Student activity tickets will admit adult tickets and be 75 cents and 25 cents will be charged for all under 16 years of age.

LOS ANGELES—Raul Campos, 134½, Mexico City, outpointed Charley Riley, 128½, St. Louis, 10 rounds.

MAN WEATHER, in a rather nasty guise these days, is lending an assist towards locating a football coach at the University of Nebraska.

Some 30 university football coaches and athletic directors are stranded on Union Pacific trains at Grand Island. They are all en route to the national coaches' convention in San Francisco.

Included in the group are such famous names as Wallace Wade, football coach at Duke university; Capt. Tom Hamilton, former athletic director of the U. S. Navy academy who recently has taken over the directorship at Pittsburgh university; Capt. Howard Caldwell, the new athletic director at the Naval academy, and Larry "Moon" Mullins, All-American fullback at Notre Dame from 1928 to 1930 who is now coaching at St. Ambrose college in Davenport, Ia.

If nothing else, this marks one method of trapping a football coach at N.U. We fear that once brothers Paul Brown and Jim Aiken view the symptoms of a Nebraska winter during their pending visits here, they may hasten elsewhere.

We would suggest some direct co-operation between the chamber of commerce and the weatherman when Brown and Aiken pay their respects.

Volney Ashford, the Missouri Valley coach, due here for an interview today, stayed in Tampa, Fla., with one of his players who was badly injured in the New Year's Cigar Bowl game. He will report to Lincoln later in January.

THIS being close to New Year's day, the time is still ripe to make this 1949 football prediction: That Oklahoma will repeat as Big Seven champion.

No less than 45 men with actual game experience, over 35 of them major lettermen, will bolster the Sooner squad next annum. Only losses will be Tackle Homer Paine, Guard Buddy Burris, Center Pete Tillman, Quarterback Jack Mitchell and Fullback Myrtle Greathouse. Splendid as that trio of linemen played, the deft Mitchell will be the biggest loss.

George Sauer, in a visit last week, explained how important an ingredient Mitchell is to the Oklahoma split-T.

Sauer, whose Kansas teams won Big Seven titles in 1946-47, thinks that Oklahoma may hit a national peak if a replacement for Mitchell can be found.

"Jack's ball-handling, above all, makes that delicate split-T tick," said George. "His record as a dangerous runner adds to the explosiveness of the formation."

Missouri, says the Navy maestro, must locate a split-T master to replace Bus Entsminger.

"Entsminger and Mitchell are quite a bit alike, although Bus is a better passer. His passing, running and ball-handling beat Navy."

Entsminger, like Mitchell, is slated to march the graduation plank.

Here are the returning Oklahoma veterans with years of available experience, starting in 1949, listed:

LE—Jim Owens (1), Ken Tipps (1), Ed Lisak (2), Harold Hoffnagle (1), Ed Mays (1).

LT—Leon Manley (1), Art Jones (2), Joe Leguene (2), Joe Horkey (2).

LG—Delton Marcum (2), Norman McNabb (2), Dean Smith (2), Dalvin Myers (2).

C—Charles Dowell (1), Harry Moore (2), Bob Bodenhamer (1), Boyd McGugan (2), Ray Peary (1).

RG—Stan West (1), Dee Andros (1), Clair Mays (2), J. W. Cole (2), Clarence Paine (1), Charles Paine (1).

RT—Wade Walker (1), Truman Wright (1), Nute Trotter (1), Waddie McDade (2).

RE—Bobby Goad (1), Frankie Anderson (2), Reece McGee (2), Gene Heape (1).

QB—Dartell Royal (1), Claude Arnold (2), Joe Cunningham (2), Bob Ewbank (2), Bill Price (2), Walter Jones (2).

LH—George Brewer (1), Wilbur Jones (2), Bobby Cowan (2), Lindell Pearson (2), Calvin Steinberger (2).

RH—George Thomas (1), Al Needs (2), Tommy Gray (2), Bill Lambeth (2).

FB—Leon Heath (2), Bob Wheat (2), Ken Parker (1).

That chart illustrates that, not only will the Sooners be hell-on-the-gridiron in 1949—they'll be veteran-laden in 1950 also.

Clair Mays is potentially as great a guard as All-America Buddy Burris. We think that Royal, the fiery triple-threat, has the same versatile talent that was Mitchell's.

Nowhere in the broad U.S.A. will you find smoother-running backs than Brothers Royal, Thomas, Pearson, Heath, Needs and Brewer. No school, aside from Notre Dame with Leon Hart and Jim Martin, can field two better ends than Owens and Goad.

Mix seasoning, line power, a terrific running attack and you have the Sooners of 1949.

Heavy Mat Aces Loom As Feature

Hutton-DiBiase Bout Heads First Wrestle

Wrestle fans attending the Nebraska-Oklahoma A. & M. mat duel at the coliseum Friday night should find the heavyweight bout the best match of the evening.

Coach Pat Patterson of the Huskers pointed to the Mike DiBiase vs. Dick Hutton bout as a thriller.

Hutton, no kin of the Nebraska halfback of the same name, holds two decisions over DiBiase. The Oklahoma matman is currently the NCAA heavyweight champion.

DiBiase, who will captain the Nebraska team in this season opener, is down to 216 pounds. He weighed 242 a year ago.

The Oklahoma A. & M. team is defending national and Olympic trials champion.

The first match will start at 7:30 and it will be Dad's day. Fathers of the Nebraska wrestlers have been invited to sit on the bench and will be introduced along with their sons before each match, Coach Patterson said.

Louis Caniglia, Omaha, who decided Ken Brown, Columbus, as the final fight will represent the Huskers at 121 pounds. Brown tried again at 124 pounds but Harold Gilliland, Curtis, decided Brown, 8-3.

Mickey Sprano, Omaha, beat John Schartz, Curtis, 2-1 for the 136 pound position. Jack Tamai, Omaha, decided Robert Russell, Salina, Kas., 5-2, to get the 145-pound title. Russell likely will be the 155 pound representative and Earl Schneider of Snyder, will handle the 165 pound division.

Herbert Reese, Omaha, lashed as the most promising sophomore wrestler, will get the 175-pound position with Captain DiBiase as the heavyweight.

While Coach Patterson says his front line wrestlers are not as strong as a year ago he looks for vast improvement before the season ends.

Rockets Notch Fourth Cage Win

THREE PLAYERS PACE NORTHEAST TO 47-29 VICTORY OVER FREMONT

By GEORGE MILLER
(Star Sports Staff Member)

NORTHEAST'S heretofore diversified scoring punch became a three-pronged barb that jabbed Fremont for a 47-29 win Tuesday night at the Rocket court.

Instead of one scoring ace, the Rockets made use of the combined efforts of three players. Jack Woods, Paul Fredstrom and Burl Kreps led the attack on the Fremont defenses.

The visiting Fremont team had a scoring punch of its own. But when Guard Dean Bader left the game on fouls just after the start of the fourth quarter, the Tiger hopes faded.

Before fouling out, Bader had scored nine points and captained the Fremont floor play.

The Tigers did not have the height to combat the pair of 6-3½ centers that Coach Dawdy Hawkins, called upon for Northeast, First Fredstrom, then Kreps took a hand at ruining Fremont with close-to-the-hoop tipin shots.

TWO DANGERS. This double menace plus some long range firing by Guard Woods was too much for the visitors. Woods topped all scorers for the evening with 11 points. Fredstrom finished with 10 before leaving on fouls. Kreps added four field goals for eight points.

Reserves played much of the second and final quarters for Northeast. Fourteen players saw action for the Rockets.

Little Leroy Seng snapped the crowd to attention late in the game with four points. His contribution and five quick points by Woods at the beginning of the quarter tallied all the Northeast scoring during the slow last period.

Fremont ran up a 3-0 lead in the early minutes of the game. Bader scored his first field goal and Center John Dick looped a free throw before Northeast could score.

CHANCE FALLS. But when the Rockets did find the range, they wasted no time. Fredstrom tallied first, then Scott Willoughby drove in for two with six minutes to play.

Two more baskets by the quick-starting Fredstrom and singles by Woods and Butler sent the Rockets to a 12-5 margin by the end of the first quarter.

At the half the Black and White squad has built its advantage to a 24-15 lead.

Fremont failed to close the gap in the third quarter when Rocket players allowed only five points. Northeast, on the other hand, raced to 13 markers, the biggest single quarter output of the game.

The loss was the fourth in five games for the Tigers. Northeast goes into the Friday game with Norfolk with a lone loss in five starts.

Wildlife Clubs Back Boating Legislation

The Nebraska Council of Wildlife clubs and various boating clubs are planning to sponsor legislation to authorize the game commission to regulate pleasure craft on Nebraska waters.

The decision came after a meeting of the council and boating clubs of Omaha and Fremont with the game commission.

The proposed law would let the commission set limits for number of people who sail in boats of various sizes and to establish requirements for life jackets and other specifications.

A license fee of $1 per year was suggested.

Omaha Hockey Team Beats Houston, 3-2

OMAHA — (AP) — A dash across the blue line with the puck by Blinky Boyce and a high corner shot by Keith Burgess brought Omaha a 3-2 U. S. Hockey league win over Houston here Tuesday night.

The winning score came in the last minute and one-half of play. Omaha had trailed 2-0 at the end of the first period. At the end of the second it was tied 2-2.
